WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., May 23, 1892.

The weather in the upper lakes is generally cloudless, and the temperature is very even, being from 48 to 52, and the winds are northerly and light. In the lower lakes the weather is cloudy and is raining at most stations on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. The temperature is lower than the upper lakes, ranging from 42 at Buffalo to 49 at Toledo, while the winds are northerly and light.

In the west and northwest the weather is cloudless and the temperature remarkable even, in fact the temperature throughout the whole country is very near the same, the highest being at Rapid City, 64 degrees, and the lowest at Oswego, 42 degrees. In the south the weather is cloudless and the temperature low for that region. It is 6 degrees cooler in Jacksonville this morning than it is in Rapid City, S. D.

The weather in this vicinity for the next 36 hours will be generally fair with possibly a light shower or two, and the temperature will rise.

A PARIS SENSATION

The Deacon Case Has Its Double.

A Woman, Whose Home Was Destroyed,

Killed the Woman Who Caused Her Trouble.

All Parties Were High in Social Life.

The Most Deliberate Crime That the French Capital Has Known Occurs by the Hand of a Woman.

Paris, May 23.—The Figaro to-day relates a story of a murder which, in view of the Deacon case, is exciting great public interest. The names are not given, but if the details in the Figaro are true they cannot long be concealed.

The story is to the effect that the wife of a government official, holding an important position, had long suspected her husband of unfaithful conduct with the wife of a deputy who holds a prominent place in the legislative chamber, and whose name has been frequently mentioned in connection with measures of national importance.

The wife had followed her husband about for some time past in the hope of detecting evidence of guilt.

He succeeded, however, in evading her and she was not able until yesterday evening to get the proof desired. The wife is known to be a woman of high temper and the tragedy that resulted is not a surprise to those who have met her.

She got an intimation in some way that her husband and the woman who had captivated his affections might be found at No. 33 Rue Durecher. The wife went there alone last night, armed with a revolver.

She succeeded in passing the porter of the building without arousing suspicion and proceeded at once to the room, which, as proved, was occupied by the faithless husband and his mistress. How she obtained admission does not appear, but she managed to get in without the suspicions of the two inmates having been aroused.

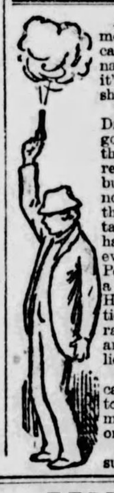
The husband was taken utterly by surprise and neither he nor the woman had an opportunity to escape. The wife poured out a flood of abuse on the guilty woman, charging her both with betraying her own husband and robbing her of the man she loved.

The wretched woman cowered in a corner of the bed which she occupied and was too stricken with shame to utter a word of reply. The fury of the deceived wife increased and drawing a revolver she fired shot after shot direct into the body in the bed.

The husband when she drew the revolver thought it was intended for him and dashed out of the room, leaving his companion at the mercy of the infuriated wife. The latter did not cease firing until five bullets were lodged in the victim's body, when, seeing that her prey was not yet dead, she drew a dagger and stabbed her repeatedly.

The blood from the wounds spurted over the murderess until she presented as gory an appearance as the expiring victim. When people who heard the struggle came into the room the dying woman could not speak but died in a few minutes.

The police were called in and the murderess taken to prison. It is said that she had reserved one bullet in the revolver for herself. The husband will undoubtedly be dismissed from the government service and the trial of the murderess promises to disclose a great deal about French society.



It's ineffective, except for the moment—the ordinary pill. Because it upsets your whole internal economy, you needn't think it's doing you good. It only shocks and weakens your system.

Take something that's better. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do good that lasts. They regulate the system, as well as cleanse and renovate it; mildly and gently, but thoroughly and effectively—no griping, no violence. They're the smallest and the easiest to take, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and the best liver pill ever known. Only one little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. Sick or Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved and cured.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

Can you ask better proof of the superiority of these little pills.

FIRE IN A TUNNEL.

Railroad Travel in the South at a Standstill.

Birmingham, Ala., May 23.—All trains on the Columbus & Western railroad were stopped yesterday on account of a disastrous fire which is raging in Coosa mountain tunnel, 20 miles from Birmingham.

It is supposed that a spark from a passing engine set the timber of the tunnel on fire. Fire engines have been sent from this city. It will be several days before the flames can be checked. The construction of this tunnel cost $1,000,000. The damage will be very great.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Newark, N. J., May 23.—Jacob Buzzard, of Elizabeth, and Herman Kunz, of this city, were struck by the fast Philadelphia train while walking on the track of the Pennsylvania railroad near Linden yesterday. Buzzard was thrown 50 feet and instantly killed. Kunz was thrown high in the air and landed against a fence. One of his arms was broken and he was internally injured.

THEY FAVOR FREE COINAGE

People's Party Men Go on Record.

Views of Leading Men on This All Important Question to the Country.

Denver, Col., May 23.—The Rocky Mountain News publishes the following:

W. H. Slater, chairman of the executive committee, Colorado Silver league, some time ago addressed individual letters to the 11 members of the people's party in congress asking them their views and position upon the question of free and unlimited coinage of silver.

To-day's combined reply, signed by seven of the members (the remaining four being absent from Washington and unable to be reached) was received. It is in part as follows:

Washington, D. C., May 11, 1892.

Mr. W. H. Slater, Chairman Executive Committee, Colorado Silver League, Denver, Col.:

Dear Sir—Your letter of April 30, 1892, addressed to the members of congress of the people's party now in this city, with accompanying documents, has been received and carefully considered. In reply we beg to say that we are in practical accord with you on the subject of free coinage of silver. We do not consider it a full solution of the money question; but as an important step in the right direction.

With this view our party and its leaders and teachers uniformly work and vote for the equal treatment of the two money metals, and we will not cease to so teach, work and vote until both are freely and equally coined alike, or until both are alike demonetized. In our opinion the world's demands for money have far outgrown the capacity of the metals to supply them, and our principal reliance hereafter must be on the legal tender treasury note. Yet, deeming it unwise to demonetize and depreciate the value of our own products, and deferring to the custom of 6,000 years, we favor the continuance of both gold and silver as money metals, both freely coined to the utmost limit of their supply, and both on the same legal footing as money with each other and with the United States treasury note.

An Invitation to the Silver Men.

Continuing the letter says:

When you have courted the favor of the two Wall street parties long enough and have been betrayed often enough to convince you that "you cannot gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles," you will find us battling for free coinage and the door of our party will still be open to all earnest, patriotic men who are willing to aid us to this and the other necessary reforms. But we cannot join any party which embraces free silver only, leaving Wall street in the saddle, with full power to oppress the poor, with all the machinery now in hand so thoroughly perfected. In our opinion a single plank for the free coinage of silver is too narrow to cover the important questions vitally connected with the industrial slavery which now threatens the country. But there must be provision for control as to money, land and transportation, and to prevent the homes of the people from being spoilated and confiscated by an alien or corporate money power.

On a proper platform like this we are anxious to welcome all earnest and patriotic citizens.

Respectfully yours, B. H. Clover, M. C., Kansas; John Davis, M. C., Kansas; K. Halverson, M. C., Minnesota; John C. Otis, Wm. C. Baker, O. C. Kell, Nebraska; Jerry Simpson.

CALLED FOR TRIAL.

The Willey Case on in Defiance.

The Case Will be Ably Defended and from all Appearances Will Last Weeks.

Defiance, O., May 23.—(Special)—The case of H. V. Willey, for murder in the first degree, for killing George Krotz, came up in the criminal court to-day. A special venire of thirty-six jurymen was drawn and it is expected that the whole week will be required in obtaining a jury.

CONGRESSMAN HARE.

A Rousing Reception Tendered by His People.

Upper Sandusky, O., May 23.—Hon. D. D. Hare, of this city, and congressman for this district, returned home from Washington and was tendered a royal reception by his hosts of friends Saturday. He was met at the train by the Little Six band and several hundred people and escorted to the court house park, where he was neatly introduced by Judge Allen S. Malley. As Mr. Hare stepped forward, he was greeted with a loud burst of applause. He expressed deep gratitude for the honor implied and followed with a very happy and entertaining address.

It was brief but to the point, non-partisan and highly enjoyed and complimented by all hearers. Mr. Hare's name will be presented for a renomination at Tiffin next Wednesday, and as there will be no opposition, will be nominated by acclamation. A great delegation will go over from here.

THE CRONIN CASE AGAIN

It is to be Reopened in Chicago.

Believed That More Arrests Will be Made.

Sensational Statements Made by People Who Have Been Watching the Suspected Men.

Chicago, May 23.—There are likely to be sensational developments growing out of the assassination of Dr. P. A. Cronin before many weeks.

Over three years have passed since the noted Irish patriot was sent to his last account; one of those convicted of complicity in the murder has died in prison concealing his secret until the end, two more of the assassins are still behind the stone walls of Joliet, while a dozen of those directly or indirectly concerned in the conspiracy have either died or been scattered as Ishmaelites over the four quarters of the country.

In all these years, however, although conducted with great secrecy, the efforts of the Irish friends of the murdered physician to penetrate the mystery surrounding the crime and conspiracy, and to secure a grip on others known to have been identified with it, have never for a moment relaxed, and it is now stated that their labors are approaching a point where the case is likely to be reopened and astounding disclosures made public.

One of the most prominent members of what is known as the Cronin wing of the Irish party in this city, and whose name is known wherever a half dozen Irishmen have gathered together on either side of the Atlantic, said to-day in reference to this subject:

"People think we have been sleeping. On the contrary we have been piling up fact upon fact, proof upon proof, until we have reached a point where we believe that the entire conspiracy and crime is revealed. When we think that the proper time has arrived the facts in our possession will be placed in the hands of the state's attorney, and those facts will be strong enough to warrant the immediate arrest, not of one man or two men, but of ten or a dozen.

"Some of them, moreover, have such a local standing that the very suggestion that they were implicated in the crime will create a sensation. There are men walking the streets of Chicago to-day who are even more guilty than the men in Joliet. They think their secret is safe as long as they live, but they are mistaken.

"As was stated in the dispatches from Joliet during his fatal illness Patrick O'Sullivan would have made clear breast of what he knew were it not for the fact, as he expressed it himself, that his statement would implicate a fellow-countryman with a large family.

"We knew all about that, even before O'Sullivan had said so. When it was first stated that the prisoner was ill this man lost no time in making arrangements to fly the country in the event of O'Sullivan's making a confession. We knew of his plans, however, and he was under surveillance morning, noon, and night until O'Sullivan had died without testifying to what he knew.

"The slightest effort on the part of this man to have gotten away would have led to his immediate arrest. There are many more in the same boat. People may think that the Cronin case is a dead issue. It is not, nor will it ever be until every one of those directly connected with it is brought to justice. It will not be very long before the next phase of this case will develope a sensation almost as great as that following the disappearance and murder itself."

THE RELAY RACE IS OVER

Gen. Miles' Message Delivered in New York

After a Hazardous Ride Through the Mud.

If the Run Has Demonstrated Anything It Is That County Roads Need Attention.

New York, May 23.—Bicycle Rider Quick delivered the message from Gen. Miles at 1:06 this morning to Lieut. Crote, U. S. A., to be delivered by him to Gen. Howard at Governor's Island. After a hard struggle with horrible roads and a blinding rain he was assisted from his wheel more dead than alive. He had ridden from Tarrytown, had left his companion on the road with a broken wheel, and had battled with the darkness, rain and mud until he placed the carefully guarded dispatch in the hands of the proper person.

No one who saw this last relay of athletes, as he staggered into the arms of a dozen reporters waiting to receive him, could imagine his forming in a line of parade of glittering wheels and brilliant uniforms. Jaded and weary he had mechanically pushed his metal steed down the boulevard and through the city, the first piece of decent going he had found in miles. Mud was packed into the spokes of his wheel, clogged the pedals and even the pelting rain and the wheel's more rapid revolution as he increased his speed on the solid road, failed to dislodge this constant companion of his journey. There were places where even the narrow wheel could not be pushed through, and then the rider dismounted and carried his "horse" until he could again remount and resume his tiresome journey.

The run down from Albany was made with little loss of time by the riders; but it was impossible to make up any of the nine hours lost before reaching Albany. The message left Poughkeepsie at 4:25 p. m., Peekskill 7:04, Sing Sing 8:44 and Tarrytown 9:41.

On the last relay, coming into Tarrytown, Harry Evyland, who was carrying the dispatch, fainted on his wheel. His companion, George C. Smith, seized it and pushed forward, leaving Evyland to recover as best he could. At Tarrytown William Campbell took the message, and accompanied by A. B. Rich and H. L. Quick, pushed on down to New York.

A hundred riders had shared in the undertaking of carrying the bit of paper from Gen. Miles in Chicago to the hands of the military aide who waited at No. 21 Park Row. From Lumsden, the first rider who bore it away from the steps of the Pullman building, to Quick, who came rushing down over the slippery Broadway pavement last night, a long succession of "crack" riders had struggled along through darkness and dampness, covered with mud, drenched to the skin, but forgetful of everything except the firm determination to pedal, pedal, pedal, until their part of the journey was accomplished.

Sometimes they spun along at a three-minute gait, as did Charles Dorntgie, who made 10 miles in 31 minutes, and in the dark at that; sometimes plowing through a slough of despond, at an ox team's pace; sometimes compelled to leave the machine mired and broken and run on foot to the next relay. Broken socket chains, bent pedal pins, buckled wheels and punctured tires were some of the incidents of the race against time, thanks to the unprecedented and altogether execrable weather encountered.

While levees and bridges are going down and railroad companies were posting scouts along their lines to look for washouts, the wheelmen stuck to their task, plunging and sliding along the apology for a highway, the American country road.

One of the things which the undertaking was to illustrate was the general depravity of American roads, and this is most certainly accomplished, when compared with similar European feats.

One man, G. P. Mills, last year rode a bicycle 875 miles, from John O'Groat's to Land's End, in a little over four days, about the time it has taken 100 men to accomplish this 1,000-mile ride.

France furnished another example last week when Stephanie rode over mountains and plains from Bordeaux to Paris, 358 miles, in 35 hours.

Another thing it has proved is the absolute untrustworthiness of the American climate.

The race managers consulted weather reports as far back as man's memory goes and picked out the present part of May as the one period when it was sure to be pleasant, and yet, as the affair has turned out, they could not have found a worse term of four days, if they had searched the calendar through for that particular article.

Yet a third point which has been emphasized by the occurrence is the enthusiam which the rural American takes in any exhibition of speed and endurance. If the histories of the riders are to be believed the fences along the country roads were loaded down with excited countrymen who were found waiting, even at midnight, each with a lantern in one hand and an umbrella in the other to see the mud splashers go coursing by. In the large towns the streets were lined with similar curious throngs, who in some cases had been waiting for hours to view the "scorchers" come in.

A Mean Trick in Ohio.

At Conneaut, O., the only case of malicious interference occurred. Some ruffians stuck a knife into the pneumatic tires of both the riders and letting the wind out of them. Other machines were secured, however, after a short delay. The schedule arranged called for an average speed of 10 miles an hour. For the first few stages the men kept well up to the schedule, and sometimes ahead of it. Then the terrible mud of Ohio and Indiana began to clog their wheels and they fell behind. At Perrysburg, 250 miles out, they were six hours and 27 minutes behind. At Conneaut, 425 miles from Chicago, they were only four hours and three minutes behind.

Gen. Miles Pleased.

Chicago, May 23.—"It is an important achievement," said Gen. Miles. He was speaking of the relay riders and their stubborn fight through the mud of five states. The fact that the message did not arrive at New York within schedule time was no surprise to him.

"The trip was a remarkable success," said he. "This experimental ride has established the fact that the bicycle would be of practical service in the army and it has also been of service in calling attention to the wretched condition of the public highways in communities that profess to be tolerably well civilized. The matter of good roads should receive more attention than it has been given."

"Does the success of the experiment prove anything as to the use of the bicycle in the army?"

"It confirms me in the belief that the bicycle will be extensively used, and that very soon. The wheelman can travel faster than the horseman, he makes no noise, does not form as large a target for the enemy, and even if he cannot go some places where the horseman can, in more instances he can go where no horse could follow. The bicycle will certainly be used in the army. I would not advise the use of the lightweight speeding machines, as I notice that some of them broke down under the hard travel. A stout wheel of medium weight would be required."

ROCKEFELLER'S MONEY.

He Is Doing Good Work for the Churches.

New York, May 23.—It is said that the action of John D. Rockefeller in placing $50,000 at the disposal of the Tabernacle Baptist church of this city is to be followed by the extension of similar aid to other churches in this and other cities.

Under the arrangement agreed upon the Tabernacle church is to use the interest on the sum in question as its trustees may see fit, subject to the advice of the donor. This arrangement is to last for ten years, and at the expiration of this period Mr. Rockefeller, if he is alive, or his family in case of his death, may, if they are so disposed, continue to apply it to the same work, or if not needed it may be used elsewhere.

At the end of 20 years the fund is to go to the care of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church of this city, which will also have the privilege of using it for two decades.

SECRETARY FOSTER.

Washington, May 23.—Secretary Foster returned from a short trip to the Chop Tank river, Maryland, last night, and was at the treasury department to-day.

THE DEEMING EXECUTION

It Has Relieved the Public of a Bad Man.

Death Was Instantaneous—The Prisoner Refused to Confess the Rain Hill Affair.

Melbourne, May 23.—The execution of Deeming is a relief to the public. So formidable was the reputation of the monster that many people were in constant fear of his committing some new atrocity, and perhaps escaping to renew his hideous career of crime. The officials having him in charge were also burdened with anxiety. The execution was witnessed by 100 spectators, including doctors, justices, members of the Victoria parliament and representatives of the press.

When the sheriff entered the cell for the purpose of reading the death warrant, he found Deeming in a dazed condition, and he continued that way until the drop fell. The clergyman who stood by him on the platform had hardly said: "Man hath but a short time to live," when the hangman gave the signal, the bolt was drawn and Deeming was hanging six feet below the scaffold. The hanging man remained in view of the spectators only a few seconds, when the curtain in front of the scaffold was drawn. A coroner's jury was impanelled and the inquest lasted until noon. Death was instantaneous. The tongue protruded slightly from the mouth, while the jaws were firmly set. His eyes showed signs of recent heavy weeping.

All of Deeming's writings are in possession of the authorities. It is understood that he made a written confession of the Windsor murder.

The bulk of his writings, however, are but a repetition of his previous conflicting statements. The biography, which report had it he was going to bequeath to Miss Kate Rounsecell, his latest fiancee, is full of ribald allusions and fantastic vaporings. Chaplain Scott says that he exhorted Deeming yesterday to confess his crime. The prisoner adhered to his former statement that he had committed only the Windsor murder and said that if he admitted the Rain Hill murders he would be lying. In a letter to the chaplain Deeming says: "I am dying a full penitent sinner and Christian. Still I tell you I did not intend to kill poor Emily. I was unconscious of doing so. I can still regard my execution as a murder. Still, death will be a relief. I should have died happy but for this point."

When Deeming was praying in his cell just before the execution he was overheard asking forgiveness for the injury he had done his family. This is construed as a confession of the Rain Hill murders.

WHOLESALE INFANTICIDE.

Terrible State of Affairs Brought to Light in Russia.

London, May 23.—The trials at Bilna, Russia, of over 30 men and women on charges of wholesale systematic infanticide have been concluded.

All of the prisoners have been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment in a fortress for terms ranging from six to thirty years.

The number of victims has not been positively ascertained, but the bodies of 65 children, mostly new-born, have been traced.

The evidence teemed with blood-curdling disclosures as to the methods employed in getting rid of the unfortunate children. Many of them were allowed to die of cold and hunger and neglect, and others were poisoned with a decoction of poppy seed; and a large number were violently put to death, being suffocated with pillows, or packages of wadding or linen, while others were strangled by the accused, or drowned in cess-pools.

The bodies of the murdered children were wrapped up in rags, and concealed in the woods at the first convenient opportunity. In some instances they were kept for days, both before and after their death, in chests, drawers, baskets, boxes, barrels, and other receptacles filled with filthy rags, and concealed in dark and sometimes noisome underground cellars. To the ring-leader of the gang, Noskina, the murders of 24 infants were attributed. Two other women were charged with the murder of 18 children each; and another was alleged to have made away with 15.

O'BRIEN AGAIN ARRESTED

The Bunco Man in the Toils Once More.

Captured When He Arrived at Havre.

French Detectives Had Received a Pointer and Were Waiting for Him.

New York, May 23.—At police headquarters it is stated nothing official has been received about Buncoer O'Brien's reported arrest in Paris.

Inspector Steers thinks, however, that it is very likely that the report is true as it has been known that O'Brien, after his escape, took a steamer from Montreal for Havre.

London, May 23.—The arrest of O'Brien, the New York bunco steerer, has been confirmed.

He was captured at Havre while leaving the steamer Marseilles, which left New Orleans on May 1 for Havre and Antwerp.

The fugnitive tried to leave the steamer with the cargo when he was detected and captured. The French police appear to have been on the lookout for him and one of their best detectives was watching at the wharf.

O'Brien appeas to have waited on board until all was quiet before attempting to go ashore. He tried to leave in the confusion during the removal of the cargo and would have escaped but for the fact that a watch had been left at the steamer with instructions to keep a close lookout.

It is said that on the way over some of O'Brien's actions led the crew to suspect that they had an escaped criminal of some importance on board, and it is also stated that a hint was given to the police authorities at Havre upon the arrival of the vessel. O'Brien was greatly taken aback by his capture and inquired whether the new extradition treaty between France and the United States, of which it appears he knew something, had yet gone into effect.

As the French officers were able to talk some English they informed O'Brien that the treaty had not been approved according to their information. O'Brien was much relieved.

The proceedings for his extradition will have to be under the present French treaty, which is quite restricted in the terms as compared with the treaty negotiated by Mr. Whitelaw Reid, and which has not, it is stated, been approved in America. Soon after O'Brien's escape and the reward offered for his capture was received in English, French and other continental ports. The English and French police have ever since been on the lookout and steamers arriving at Liverpool, Havre and other places have been carefully scrutinized.

Escaped Again.

Havre, May 23.—O'Brien escaped from the police after being taken in custody.

THE METHODISTS.

Bishop Warren in the Chair at Omaha.

Committees Filing Their Reports and Business Being Pushed.

Omaha, Neb., May 23.—Bishop Warren presided to-day over the general conference. No time was lost, business being energetically taken up. The committee on episcopacy filed a report recommending that an episcopal residence in Europe be added to the present list.

The committee on revisals recommends that the many petitions to abolish the six months' probationary term be denied.

A minority report recommends that the time be reduced to three months.

The committee on temporal economy, to which was referred the matter of chaplains in the army, recommends that the conference demand that an adequate number of chaplains be appointed in the army; that they be regularly commissioned officers and not mere contract men; that three bishops be selected to recommend suitable candidates for appointment in the army; and that the nearest Sunday to July 4th be known in the church as Army and Navy day and that services on that day pertain to the welfare of those bodies.

The committee on judiciary, to whom was intrusted the interpretation of the words "lay delegate," after a general comment on the matter reported that they have decided that no other interpretation than that now had can be made—namely that "lay delegate" means male delegate and not female. These reports were laid aside for the present in order to take up pending business.

THE BATTLE IS NOW ON

Harrison Must Not be Nominated.

Such Is the Voice of His Enemies, and Blaine Is the Man to be Pushed.

New York, May 23.—The Herald says: Many republican politicians of note were still in the city yesterday and conferences were the order of the day.

National Chairman James C. Clarkson, who is engineering the Blaine boom, which was launched forth the other day, was a busy man. Consul General at London John C. New, President Harrison's able lieutenant, met Mr. Clarkson at the Plaza hotel and the gentlemen had quite an extended chat.

Among others who saw Mr. Clarkson were Cornelius Bliss, General G. W. Dodge, General Butterfield, General Horace Porter, ex-Congrssman Burligh, and R. W. Patterson, managing editor of the Chicago Tribune.

The Miller men in the city have thrown all disguise overboard and are now openly declaring for Blaine and against Harrison.

ALONG THE GREAT LAKES

Tug Morford Makes a Towing Record.

Nine Large Boats in One Procession.

Vessel Passages and Mention of Interest to Every Man Who Follows the Water.

Chicago, May 23.—(Special Marine Service.)—It has been rather dull work looking for tows on Saturday and when the tug Morford came in Saturday night with a fleet of nine lumber laden vessels, the fact created the biggest sort of a sensation. Numerous tugs had been half way down the lake and had returned empty-handed. How Capt. Charlie Roach corralled that fleet was the great question. The aggregate cargoes of the nine vessels are 3,000,000 feet of lumber and the tow bill of each vessel (in and out) is $50, making $450 in all. The procession while moving on the lake strung out 3,000 feet in length. The Morford had been out 46 hours and before she picked up the fleet had rescued the steamer Lawrence, with passengers and freight on board, from the most dangerous place on the rocks of Racine reef. With the nine vessels in tow, the tug moved at the rate of 5 1-2 miles an hour. The vessels were the Resumption, G. J. Boyce, City of Cheboygan, Minnie Shanson, Gracie M. Filer, C. J. Magill, Jack Thompson, M. Capron, and Myrtle. The Mollie Spencer brought in a tow of six schooners. It is only once in a life time that a tow like the Morford's can be got together on stormy Lake Michigan, and where there is so much rivalry as there is at present.

A Fine Steamer.

The fine new steamship Tampa left yesterday, light, for Escanaba to load iron ore. The Tampa is one of the most finely modeled craft on the entire chain of lakes and attracted a great deal of admiration as she passed out of the harbor. She is five feet longer than the great City of Paris, has steam power to correspond, and all modern improvements for the hauling of freight.

The master of the schooner, H. Taber, was overjoyed when he read in the papers yesterday morning that his seaman, Andrew Hansen, had been rescued and taken to Racine. He says Hansen must be an iron man to have been in that icy water so long and yet be found alive when the schooner Newland picked him up. The captain telegraphed to Racine yesterday to learn Hansen's condition, but up to last evening had received no reply.

THIS IS PLAIN.

It Simply Explains the Position of Drs. Copeland and Bell.

Whom the Shoe Fits Let Him Put It On—Now Let the Public Judge By Results of the Merit of Our Work.

Drs. Copeland and Bell say what they have to say to the public in a direct and straightforward manner. They do not ask the protection of the newspapers, or seek to secure silence by threats of libel. They are themselves responsible for their printed statements, and what they say in print they are prepared to prove. Let there be no mistake about this. Their names, their work and their record are before the public, and when assailed they have a right to protect themselves by all adequate and legitimate means. They have this to say to the newspapers in which they advertise, and the public generally: When attacks or criticisms are to be made, print them. All they ask is an opportunity to answer what is said just as frankly and just as truthfully as they are able. They don't seek to suppress attacks or criticisms of any kind. The only thing they demand is that such attacks shall be signed by responsible parties, and shall contain names, facts and places; no indefinite allusions or vague insinuations. This is fair; it is also business. "Whom the shoe fits, let him put it on."

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

It is Submitted by Mr. Clouse, of Cygnet in Behalf of Drs. Copeland and Bell.

No statement from any of the patients of Drs. Copeland and Bell is more remarkable or more forcible than the following, contributed by Mr. F. D. Clouse, of Cygnet, Ohio:

Those who suffer from consumption, or what is generally called consumption, should read this statement, as it indicates what can be done for them by thoroughly skilled specialists who have only the good of the patient at heart.

"I have been affected," said Mr. Clouse, "for six or seven years. I was under the treatment of physicians almost constantly, but the doctors were all at sea in regard to my ailment. Some said I had consumption; some said it was bleeding from the stomach. Dr. T. A. Slocum of New York City, said that I had consumption and treated me for it. I coughed and raised a great deal. I had pains through the chest and back; I had chills and night sweats. The night sweats were so profuse that frequently I had to have the bed-clothing changed. I lost flesh and strength and began to think that I was going to die, especially since my mother and sister had died with consumption.

"The pains through my chest and back were very severe, and when I coughed it nearly tore me to pieces. My throat was raw and sore because of the continual dropping from the head into my throat, and the coughing. I had dull pains in the back of my head and over my eyes. My appetite was irregular and if I ate any quantity I had great distress afterwards. My sleep was fitful and unrefreshing. Altogether I was completely run down, and was so weak I was obliged to give up my work.

What Has Been Done For Him.

"Since placing myself under the treatment of Drs. Copeland and Bell my cough has disappeared to such an extent that I scarcely notice it. My sore throat has gone, and the dropping from the head which used to irritate it has ceased altogether. I have no headaches, no pains through my chest or back. My appetite is improved and I relish my food, and have no feeling of distress. I sleep well and awake feeling thoroughly refreshed. During the time of treatment I have gained considerable flesh and strength, and feel better than I have at any time in the past ten years. My recovery has been remarkable. I owe all this to Drs. Copeland and Bell, and desire publicly to express my gratitude to them, and to testify to their splendid ability as physicians."

STOPPED BY THE POLICE

Sunday Ball Playing is Against the Law

And Chief Raitz Arrested Both Teams.

Miscellaneous Sporting Matter Gathered from all Over the Land for Bee Readers.

Nearly four thousand people went to the ball park yesterday to see the Toledo-Columbus game. The attendance would have been much larger had it not been known that the club was certain to be arrested for violating the law by playing ball on Sunday. And, too, the cold weather had much to do with keeping the people away, as the air was better suited to snow ball than base ball.

It was the intention of the police to stop the game during the first few innings, but the ball people started the game earlier than usual and when Chief Raitz arrived on the ground eight innings had been played and the score was tied.

Chief Raitz stepped up to the plate and placed both teams under arrest for violating the law prohibiting Sunday ball playing. Then it was that the fool friends of Sunday base ball gave it a very black eye by leaving the bleachers like a lot of wild men and by hissing and jeering the police. Chief Raitz was doing his sworn duty when he stopped the game. No matter what may have been his wishes in the case, he had no other alternative. The names of all the ball players were entered on the blotter and the men were released on bail.

The game yesterday was nicely played until the policemen commenced to put in an appearance and then Toledo seemed to have visions of police stations in front of them and Columbus was allowed to tie the score. Dewald pitched a splendid game. O'Day was quite effective with men on bases, but the way Toledo was hitting the ball the Pirates should have scored ten runs.

Columbus opened the series here Saturday before a fair sized attendance, and a good game of ball was played. Clark pitched for Toledo and Stephens for Columbus. Breckenridge won the game for Columbus by hitting the ball over the fence with the bases full, but with perfect play the bases would not have been filled. The following is the score of the game:

Byron Ritchie appeared in police court this morning, representing Mr. Gunnels and the players who were arrested for playing Sunday ball. The case was continued to Tuesday, May 31. The court room was packed with people anxious to hear the case, but they got left, as the boys say, and now the question arises, will the boys be arrested if they play again next Sunday?

Toledo's last game here this series will be on Monday, May 30, so that the case will probably be fought while the club is away.

Sporting Notes.

Hank O'Day is the same old boy as of old.

Darling threw nicely to the bases Sunday.

Gus Schmelz is much pleased with Toledo's pitchers.

Dewald is a quiet chap, but he pitches a great game of ball.

The Toledo boys are not playing as good ball at home as they did away from home.

It was tough to have to give Sammy Nichol an error Sunday, after the hard play he made.

Armour should be taken from the top of the batting list until the game comes his way. Ely or Gettinger should lead the list.

Campion is daily increasing his popularity by his hard, earnest playing. He is the cleverest first baseman in the Western league and always plays ball to win.

THE ENGLISH CARS.

London, May 23.—In reply to a memorial signed by a large number of members of parliament referring to the recent outrages upon women in railroad carriages, and urging that railroads be compelled to furnish separate carriages for the female sex, the president of the board of trade, Sir Massey Hicks-Beach, says that all passenger trains traveling 20 miles without stopping are provided under the law with means of communication; that he is of the opinion that the present arrangements are efficient, and that he does not propose at present to suggest any alteration or extension of the law.

JAMES DOOLEY'S CRIME

The Most Cold-Blooded of the Time.

His Trial Commences To-day in Prescott, Iowa—His Confession the Only Evidence.

Prescott, Ia., May 23.—A preliminary hearing in the case of James Dooley, who murdered Mrs. William Coons and her little daughter, at Villisca, on the 11th inst., is in progress here to-day. Dooley is a young man about 16 years of age, and does not appear to be over bright. The chief evidence against him is his own confession, in which he says that his aunt abused him on account of his failing to keep the cattle shut up, and thereupon he decided to kill her, that he struck her twice upon the head with a heavy padlock, and that after she had been rendered unconscious he fired six shots into her brain from a revolver.

Then her little 10-year-old daughter came in crying, and he killed her in the same manner that he had disposed of her mother. Dooley's statement as to the reason of the tragedy, however, is disproved by the declaration of the physicians that the unfortunate woman had been the victim of a criminal assault before she was killed, and this is strengthened by the fact that the body was found stretched out upon a bed, the hands tied and the clothing torn.

The cold blooded nature of the murder is evidenced in the fact that after he had killed his aunt and her daughter, he sat down at the table in the same room and ate his dinner alone before leaving, with the bodies stretched out before him.

DEEMING IS DEAD.

Australia Makes Short Work of Criminals.

Melbourne, May 23.—Deeming, the murderer, was executed at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Thus ended the life of one of the greatest criminals the world has ever seen. Deeming's career is too well known and his crimes of too recent date to need repeating. It is believed by many that he is Jack the Ripper.

Mr. S. G. Derry

Of Providence, R. I.,

Widely known as proprietor of Derry's Waterproof Harness Oil, tells below of his terrible sufferings from Eczema and his cure by

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

"Gentlemen: Fifteen years ago I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which was followed by eczema or salt rheum, breaking out on my right leg. The humor spread all over my legs, back and arms,

A Foul Mass of Sores, swollen and itching terribly, causing intense pain if the skin was broken by scratching, and discharging constantly. It is impossible to describe my suffering in those years of agony and torture. I spent in futile efforts to get well, and was discouraged and ready to die. At this time I was unable to lie down in bed, had to sit up all the time, and was unable to walk without crutches. I had to hold my arms away from my body, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged by my faithful wife twice a day.

"Finally a friend who was visiting at our house, urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began by taking half a teaspoonful. My

Stomach Was All Out of Order

But the medicine soon corrected this, and in six weeks I could see a change in the condition of the humor which nearly covered my body. It was driven to the surface by the Sarsaparilla, the sores soon healed, and the scales fell off. I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I had been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for seven months; and since that time, nearly two years, I have worn no bandages whatever and my legs and arms are sound and well.

The Delight

of myself and wife at my recovery it is impossible to tell. To all my business friends in Boston and over the country, I recommend from personal experience." S. G. DERRY, 45 Bradford street, Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

PASTURE AT $2 A MONTH!

I will take horses to pasture on my farm at Bay Shore. They will be looked after twice a day, be regularly salted and cared for. The pasture is part tame and part wild. When the tame pasture is exhausted, as is invariably the case in the middle of the summer, the wild pasture is rich and luxuriant, keeping the stock in prime condition the whole season.

The pasture fronts on the bay, so that the stock can stand in the water, which is of material benefit to horses which have become sore from being driven on the pavements. For further information address

THE CITY SUED

For Damages Resulting From an Uncovered Gas Trench.

In common pleas court to-day Elizabeth Van Gunten sued the city for $5,000 damages for personal injury.

The plaintiff in her petition alleges that Kerlin Bros., under a contract with the city gas trustees, excavated a deep trench at the intersection of Washington and Erie streets, which was left open, unprotected and unguarded, covered by a weak and thin board. That she attempted to cross the ditch, when the board broke and she was violently thrown into the trench, sustaining serious and permanent injury.

She alleges that the defendant is in duty bound to see that all such work is done in a workmanlike and skillful manner and to protect the public from danger.

COMMUNION.

A Great Day in Father Hannin's Church —Sixty-nine New Members.

First communion exercises occurred yesterday at St. Patrick's church. Three hundred children had been preparing for three days preceding Sunday in preparation for yesterday's services, 69 of whom received their first communion and the balance receiving their instructions and obligations preparatory to confirmation.

At 9:30 o'clock the Hibernians, headed by the City band and carrying the United States flag and the banner of their organization, joined the boys and girls who had formed into lines, and the procession marched to Michigan street, to Indiana avenue, to Division, to Illinois, to Fifteenth, to Lafayette, into the church.

In the church high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Hannin, assisted by Rev. Fr. Kamp. After the services the procession pursued the same line of march, returning to the school, where the morning's exercises were brought to a close.

The girls, wearing pretty communion dresses of white, with white veils and slippers, and the young men neatly dressed and wearing regalias, presented a fine appearance and were received by a large number of spectators.

The evening services were conducted by Rev. Father Kamp, who gave instructions on the future duties of children to their parents, their neighbors and their God. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers, candles, etc.

SALOON CLOSED

At the Corner of Adams and Tenth Streets.

The saloon at the corner of Adams and Tenth streets, run by Henry Siccle, was closed this morning. It has long been an annoyance to people in the vicinity and many others thought it in too close proximity to the high school.

The property is owned by William Hyland, of Vermont avenue, who formerly had a grocery in the building. A great many complaints have been made to the police of the way business was being conducted here, and as Mr. Siccle's lease expires in a few days it is thought he closed the saloon to avoid arrest.

A DISPUTE OVER TOLEDO.

The Territory Claimed by Both Parties.

In the Bee a few weeks ago, mention was made of a new industry for women in the way of a bakery which was to be erected and operated by them.

Mrs. Geo. B. Woodridge, of Summit street, was the chief projector of the scheme, which was the organizing a company with a capital stock of $25,000, with shares of $25 each. The bakery was to be run by means of the bread-kneading apparatus recently patented by Mr. Brice, of Indianapolis, and which is guaranteed to turn out 3,000 loaves of bread an hour.

It was known that enough shares had been taken to warrant the forming of a company, and just why matters were at a standstill was not known.

Now it transpires that there is a controversy between Mr. Brice and the agents of the Woman's Baking company, he claiming Toledo as his territory, while the ladies believe it belongs to them.

Until the dispute is settled Toledo will have to worry along with hand-made bread.

TWO TOLEDO LADIES

Graduate in Elocution and Physical Culture.

The Gymnasium of Miss Phelps' School of Expression and Physical Culture was crowded almost to overflowing Friday night with an audience of intellectual and progressive people to witness the exercises attending the graduation of Miss Harriet Elizabeth Peckham and Miss Ruth Gertrude Teague. A graduate in elocution and physical culture means a person with a strong, perfectly developed body, a mind of equal strength and development, and a voice trained to express every emotion or feeling musically and at will. This would seem to be an almost perfect being, but it is simple truth that all these graces of mind and body are embodied in the young ladies who were graduated last night. The school has been in progress three years, and the entertainment given last night was the first of its kind. The class graduated was a normal one, that is the graduates are fitted for teaching, and the normal class will now be a feature of the school. "The Ruggleses' Dinner Party," was the first number on the program, a reading by Miss Teague, in which she displayed much elocutionary talent. A violin solo by Miss Maud Snyder came next, and was well received. The participants in the Free Hand Drill were: Miss Harriet Elizabeth Peckham, Miss Ruth Gertrude Teague, Miss Louise Peckham, Miss Emily Jefferson, Miss Edith Whitaker, Miss Edith Breckinridge, Miss Maude Breckinridge. The Misses Teague and Peckham then gave a "Scene from the Merchant of Venice," in splendid style, and were heartily applauded. The High Tide, from Jean Ingelow, by Miss Gertrudge Teague, was the last number on the program, and one of the finest. The presentation of certificates was made by Miss Phelps in a few graceful words in which she expressed regret for the pleasant associations that must now be severed. After these exercises the young ladies held a reception in the parlors where they received the congratulations and floral gifts of their friends.

IS IT DEN KEELER?

The Toledoan Robbed in St. Louis Saturday.

He Left Toledo for St. Louis Friday With Money and Diamonds—His Friends Uneasy.

The following dispatch from St. Louis is causing considerable anxiety to a number of Toledo families:

"Harry A. Johnson, of Toledo, O., was picked up by the police here last night in a semi-conscious condition. On being revivied he said he had been robbed by traveling companions from Indianapolis of $1,235 in money and two diamonds valued at $700. The police are investigating."

There is no Harry A. Johnson in Toledo and the friends of G. D. Keeler, who left here for St. Louis Friday night are apprehensive that it may be he. Last week Mr. Keeler purchased a stock of jewelry of Robert Nelson & Son, of this city with a view of starting in the jewelry business in New Mexico.

Diamonds, it seems, are a hobby of his, and it is known that he had on his person several fine diamonds, two of which were mounted on rings.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENT.

Washington, May 23.—The president has appointed Rear Admiral Stephen J. Luce (retired) commissioner general, and James C. Welling, president of the Columbian university, Washington, D. C., and G. Brown Goode, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian institution, Washington, assistants to represent the United States at the Columbian historical exposition, to be held in Madrid, Spain, this summer, in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

There are differences of opinion among all of us. There will be, so long as knowledge is incomplete.

But there is one subject upon which all authorities agree, and that is that the Carlsbad Mineral Waters are a specific remedy in all diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys, for constipation, gout and rheumatism. If you cannot have the Waters conveniently use the genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salts, which are the solid evaporations of the genuine Waters imported from Carlsbad. It is not a mere purgative; it is also an alterative and a constitutional remedy of great value. Be sure to get the genuine, which must have the signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Co.," Agents, N. Y., on every bottle.

On Common Ground.

The scope of the decision of the Vatican on "the Faribault plan" for the secularization of parochial schools was not given in the interpretation by the Civilita Cattolica. Archbishop Ireland expresses his "regret that Archbishop Corrigan fell into this error. The Faribault plan is allowed and approved and without limitation to any number or any special schools. It is a wonderful stride towards unity and freedom at one and the same time. There are catholics who will protest, because they say the very air of the public schools wins children away from the close allegiance and control of the church. There are protestants who will protest and say it is "the leak in the dike" through which the waters will sweep, eventually, and overwhelm the unsectarian public school. Large-minded, unprejudiced persons will hail the omen as a mellowing of unchristian differences for the good of the whole people. Or, to put it into practical form, an economical and satisfactory way to settle the school-tax question, especially in new towns where the number of patrons is small and the school funds correspondingly small. If neighbors shall thus agree to compromise and live together in harmony, who shall say them nay? It is democracy in its broadest scope—that citizens in different localities may arrange differences in this liberal way if they so elect.

Mr. John R. McLean.

A newspaper and its proprietor are so closely connected that the reader is very apt to unite the two when censure is deserved. Thus Mr. John R. McLean has been very often and very much whacked for the fancied or real offenses of the Enquirer. One must agree, who knows its proprietor well, that if Mr. McLean remained in Cincinnati more and in Washington less, he would be in closer touch with the democrats of Ohio. However, that is his business and not ours. We know him to be an able and generous democrat, capable of doing very much for the democratic party, and we take no stock in the continual tirade against him. As to his present position the following card, which appeared in the Enquirer on Sunday, is direct and self-explanatory:

To Democratic Politicians of Ohio: I am not, and shall not be, a candidate for delegate-at-large nor for district delegate to the National Democratic Convention. Under no circumstances will I go. The Enquirer has no candidate for the presidential nomination. It will do all it can to elect the man nominated at Chicago.

J. R. McLean.

The last sentence of Mr. McLean's card signifies much. Democrats can not ask more. The Enquirer can do much in the coming campaign and undoubtedly will give material assistance. The democrats of Ohio are becoming harmoniously united.

Democratic Converts

The taunt that some democratic candidates prospective were, in other time, republicans, moves one to repeat the oft-spoken charge that the republican party in its latter degenerate days has drifted entirely away from its principles and its leaders. Of what was the republican party formed? Its bone and sinew were democrats, and that honest, conservative element is all that has saved it from wreck. It is very natural for this contingent to forswear allegiance and follow where honesty of purpose and safety for the country leads, the questions of difference having been settled.

A republican who became so disgusted with his party that he was obliged to repudiate it and its unAmerican policies, is a pretty good man to stand at the head and turn his batteries against them. He knows them and is in mood not to spare them. Legislation for the privileged classes, dishonest methods for the purchase of power, reckless extravagance with the people's treasure and a defiance of the people's demands and needs with a "what-you-going-to-do-about-it"—these are the things that make strong and substantial converts to democracy from the republican party.

Again, Mr. Blaine.

The scene shifts and Blaine appears again as the coming republican candidate for president. His friends have been persistently and successfully importunate and he yields and says ,"I shall make no further objections." Which means that Harrison must get out of the way. The tide once turned Blaineward the machinery of the administration will be powerless to stay its advance. Neither Elkins nor Foster will be able to prevent a single state from wheeling into line. No man in the country is so strong with the republican party as Blaine, and no man is so weak at the polls as Blaine. The democrats welcome this change of front. Blaine can command the Minneapolis situation but not the election.

The republican campaign program is taking definite form. The southern outrage mill is started; the pamphlet showing how a tariff tax will increase trade and discourage imports at one and the same time is started on its travels. The Cobden club is reinstated after its disastrous bankruptcy and is again ready with its barrels of gold for the election in this country. The sectionalism of the program is a little behind time but the race question may develop something tangible soon, and "a great number of factories are preparing" to manufacture tin horns and whistles for use.

Assuming that Blaine will be the republican candidate for president the leaders are looking about for a vigorous man of fair record for his running mate. They want a man who will make a good president, as they realize that Blaine is too sick to administer the office four years. He is to be propped up in bed to lead the forlorn hope. The candidacy for vice presidency now lies between Alger and Bob Lincoln.

A man's true dispostion finds open expression in the pursuit of business or in professional experience. That "you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" is exemplified in the career of Henry W. Tierman, the sky rockety young man of alleged newspaper proclivities, who, though honestly raised and liberally educated in Toledo, is in bad order for several reasons in Columbus. He had an off-color experience as a newspaper reporter last winter, and on Saturday last was arrested for blackmail, and the authorities claim to have him dead to rights. He is a bad man destined sooner or later to come to a miserable end.

The natural gas question can be settled very easily by the common council and there should be no difficulty in arriving at an amicable conclusion. Amend the Coleman ordinance so as to make the price twenty cents and people generally will be satisfied. And, after the matter is settled, the gas trustees should follow suit and advance prices so that the city plant will begin to put money into the sinking fund to pay the debt. Let us get upon a good solid business basis and cease contending about the natural gas question.

The local authorities have decided to suppress Sunday base ball, and having the power will probably carry out their program. The preachers are much ahead in the first inning.

BLAINE AND LINCOLN.

Such is the Slate for Minneapolis.

Harrison is to be Crowded Out.

Reliable Information from Washington to the Effect that Blaine Will be Nominated.

W. C. MacB., in his Washington letter to the Enquirer, says: "The convention to be held in Minneapolis on the 7th day of next June will nominate James G. Blaine for the office of president of the United States.

"This information is not based on street gossip or curbstone conference. It is a living, indisputable fact.

"Ever since the name of Blaine has been connected with this nomination, its ratification repuired only his assent. Up to within forty-eight hours ago this was withheld. It is no longer withheld. The situation has reached the crisis. Mr. Blaine has spoken to this extent:

"'I will do nothing to prevent my nomination. I have made my last denial.' And I can say likewise that if nominated Mr. Blaine will make the race. He realizes that the republican party will need its best effort to win the election. The assurances so persistently made that his own name is stronger than any other have had their weight.

"Yielding every consideration to party welfare, he is in the hands of the delegates. He will neither seek the nomination nor run away from it. If called upon to lead, he throws the magic of his name and fame to the foremost front.

"Behind this demand for Blaine, New York and Pennsylvania will be in solid line. Ohio will fall in and the great northwest is already there. Once his name were voted for, the convention is ablaze. The conditions in a week may be that all other names will be out. Mr. Harrison has openly declared that he will make no effort for the nomination.

"Those who have the confidence of Blaine are now looking for his running mate. Two names are thought of. One is Robert Lincoln, of Illinois, the other Jerry Rusk, of Wisconsin. McKinley had been discussed. He was dismissed because he gave no weight. Blaine in Ohio is as strong, yes, stronger, than the youthful governor. Rusk has many of the elements of strength, but his age weighs against him.

"Blaine's health, always a consideration, demands a young man behind him. Lincoln has the proper age, the prestige of a great name. He has made a creditable secretary of war and filled acceptably the post once held by John Quincy Adams. Behind this is a desire to strengthen Illinois should Palmer or Morrison be on either end of the democratic ticket.

"I send this positive information because it has reached the stage where it is truth, not vapid gossip. It is warp and woof. It is all wool and a yard wide."

CURRENT COMMENT.

A charge made against John Sherman that he is the head of a land-grabbing syndicate is likely to make the wintry air of the white house as genial as the breath of June.—New York World.

The Ohio delegation has never earnestly supported John Sherman for a presidential nomination. That has always been his weakness. If he will watch for awhile Mr. Cleveland will give him a lesson in getting along without your own state.—St. Louis Republic.

Harrison's request that cabinet ministers and other high federal officials shall be conspicuous by their absence at Minneapolis may be taken as an indication that he desires to avoid all appearances of evil rather than as an expression of his wish to abstain from the evil itself.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The relay bicycle race has already produced one good result. It has called attention to the horrible condition of the public highways of this country. One of these days road reform will be as popular a cry as tariff reform.—Chicago News.

Mr. Walter Damrosch, the talented young musician, thinks that beyond peradventure Father-in-law Blaine can be nominated and elected. This is filial, interesting and commendable, but not important.—Kansas City Star.

Uncle Jerry Rusk is looming up as a possible nominee on the republican ticket for vice president. Can this move have been started with the hope of winning over the disaffected farmer vote of the northwest?—New Orleans New Delta.

For Green B. Raum's successor in the pension bureau all will agree that the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst is the man. The pension office is so full of rottenness the reverend reformer could amuse himself for months and at the same time do a good service for the country.—Charleston News and Courier.

The fact will be the subject of considerable derisive comment that, while the Methodist conference at Omaha was greatly interested in the subject of "negro outrages" in the south, the highest black candidate got but two votes when it came to voting for officers. It will be said, and with truth, that the conference sympatnizes with the negro, but will not vote for him.—Kansas City Star.

After repeated experiments the authorities in New York charged with the killing of convicted murderers by electricity have become so reasonably proficient in their dreadful business that objection to the method has been fairly met. It is a quick death; probably painless; possibly as merciful as any that could be inflicted.—Philadelphia Record.

An amusing story hails from Indianapolis. The democratic state central committee and the pension office there have their rooms in the same building. The proprietor, Mr. Van Camp, has received a letter from Commissioner Raum, in which it is alleged that the old soldiers of the state object to having their pension office located so near the headquarters of the Indiana democracy. The old soldiers, many of whom are themselves democrats, deny ever having made any such complaint, and it is, therefore, probable that the alleged objection originated in Mr. Raum's professionally patriotic brain. If not, the complaint must have been made by some pensioner with a sensitive conscience. The democratic party has never opposed just pensions.—Chicago Herald.

HARRY TIERNAN IN HOC.

Arrested in Columbus on a Serious Charge.

An Erstwhile Toledo Journalist Gets Into a Peck of Trouble at the State Capital.

Harry W. Tiernan, at one time editor of the now defunct Catholic Standard, of this city, is in trouble in Columbus. He was arrested Saturday night on the charge of blackmail, together with his partner, Editor Levering, of the World. They were arrested by Detectives Bergin and Kelly, of the police department.

The case is one of the most sensational in the criminal annals of Columbus, and one of the cleverest pieces of detective work turned for a long time.

Tiernan and Levering have been conducting the Sunday World on a blackmailing basis for some time. Tiernan is the man who played the role of a detective in the recent senatorial contest, and it was principally through his instrumentality that a resolution to investigate Representative Daugherty was introduced into the house. He finally made himself so obnoxious as an alleged newspaper man that a resolution was introduced by Representative Taylor, of Jefferson, to expel him from the floor of the house.

Recently Tiernan became associated with Levering in the publication of the World. About a week ago he addressed letters to all the sporting men of the city, stating that he contemplated waging war against gambling through the columns of the World, but intimating at the same time that he could be "fixed."

Superintendent of Police Murphy's attention was called to Tiernan's scheme and he set up a job on the black-mailer. Arty Duffy, proprietor of a swell pool-room on West State street, was among the sporting men tackled by Tiernan. Superintendent Murphy directed Mr. Duffy to carry on the game with Tiernan and catch him, if possible. Detectives Bergin and Kelly were detailed on the case. Tiernan arranged for a meeting with Duffy Saturday night to make a bargain in regard to the World's influence on the question of gambling.

Tiernan showed up at Duffy's place at 9 o'clock, and was escorted to an upstairs room. Concealed behind a bed in this room were the two detectives mentioned and five witnesses. The door was locked, and Tiernan proceeded to business. He stated that a number of influential business firms, among them being Bowe & Beggs and Dun, Taft & Co., and also the Law and Order league, had agreed to pay the World $3,500 to wage war on the gamblers. He claimed, however, that the World was not opposed to gambling, and that the management would much prefer to encourage it. For $800 he agreed to refuse the offer of the anti-gambling element. He made this proposition in plain language, without any condition by which he could cover up his guilt.

Duffy made a "bluff" of agreeing to the proposition in behalf of the sporting fraternity of the city. He gave Tiernan a check on the Deshler bank for $700, and a marked $100-bill. Tiernan pocketed the lucre, and just as he did so he was made a prisoner.

Detective Bergin walked around from behind the bed and placed Tiernan under arrest. The black-mailer did not resist and was quietly taken to the city prison. Levering was soon afterward arrested at the Sunday World office and both were locked up. Their bail was fixed at $500 each, which they were unable to give.

The brazenness of the attempt to blackmail the sporting fraternity is unparalleled, and investigation develops the fact that every proprietor of a gambling room in the city has received a written proposition, signed by Tiernan, to protect them for a certain sum of money. Levering will be remembered as one of the leading actors in the Elliott newspaper tragedy.

It was an article published in the World that led to the murder of A. C. Osborn and W. L. Hughes by the Elliotts. Among those who know Levering there will be much surprise that he should have engaged in blackmailing business, as he has held several important political positions, among them that of deputy oil inspector here under Gov. Campbell, and was held in high favor at the executive office.

BAIL INCREASED.

A dispatch from Columbus to the Bee says: Chief of Police Murphy raised the bail of Tiernan and Levering from $300 as fixed by Police Judge Martin to $500. They are both in the city prison, and though efforts are still being made to secure their release there is little probability that they will be successful.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Damrosch Concert Saturday Night.

The Attraction at the People's This Week Will be the Fast Mail —A Tent Show.

Anticipations were more than realized by the grand musical entertainment at Wheeler's Saturday night, which is saying a good deal. The program spoke advisedly when it said "artists," and the young leader, Mr. Damrosch, merits the extravagant praises that have been given him. He interprets music as true poets read poetry; he enters into the mood of the composer and true expression is the result. You hear the sighs of the winds and the rippling of the waters in "Fingal's Cave," and you see the clans gateher on the highlands at the call of the bagpipes. The Scotch idyl included in the "Divertisement" was one of the daintiest things ever performed by so many instruments. And this is the charm of the Damrosch orchestra's music—there is soul and intelligence in it. This with perfect harmony and tempo, is an inspiration to listeners. The audience showed fine appreciation of the performance. Fraulein Doyay sang with performance. Fraulin Rony sang with great ease, power and sweetness of voice. She knows how to breathe and how to give clear, unobstructed tones. The affair was a brilliant success.

At the People's.

This evening the Fast Mail, Lincoln J. Carter's big scenic production, will open a week's engagement at the People's theater. It will be represented by a good company and elaborate scenery. The story is thrilling, and justice is done the startling and realistic scenes by a perfection of mechanical effects. Among other reproductions is a representation of an engine room on a Mississippi river steamboat, with the furnaces under the boilers fired up; a train of cars shoots across the stage in one scene, and in another there is a vivid, beautiful and awe-inspiring representation of Niagara Falls by moonlight, with the singing waters and graceful mist that rises above and about it.

Sun Brothers' Show.

Sun Brothers' United Shows open this evening at the corner of Monroe and Fourteenth streets. The performance is given on an elevated stage under canvas and will consist of tumbling, juggling, trained animals and numerous excellent acts. The Sun Brothers are Toledo boys and they open their summer season here. They have a good show and should be given an enthusiastic send-off.

W. H. VANDERBILT DEAD.

New York, May 23.—Wm. H. Vanderbilt, the eldest son of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and a student at Yale, has been sick with typhoid fever at his father's house in this city. Yesterday there was a change in his condition, and late last night his father said the change was for the worse. Dr. James McLane was at the house all night, and Cornelius also sat up.

CHARLES GAYLER DEAD.

New York, May 23.—Charles Gayler, the veteran American playwright, is dying in St. John's hospital, Brooklyn. Mr. Gayler is 73 years old and was born on Oliver street, this city, in April, 1820. He is suffering from a combination of diseases, the most fatal being heart disease and Bright's disease.

CALLED OUT THE TROOPS.

Salt Lake City, May 23.—Col. Blunt, commanding the Sixteenth infantry at Fort Douglas, near this city, has been notified by the war department to hold his command ready to march at an hours notice to the scene of the strike among the miners at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

You Can't Enforce Obsolete Laws.

To the Editor: It is a well-known fact that laws often become dead letters long before they are repealed.

The laws concerning witchcraft existed long after the great mass of the people had become disgusted with them. The clergy stood by them long after the laity had ceased to believe in witchcraft. The creeds, many of them, are dead letters. Suppose any minister in this city should preach the doctrines of Calvin. Suppose he should tell his people that the number of the saved and the number of the eternally damned has been from all eternity fixed, so that it cannot be augmented or diminished; how long could he hold his pulpit? In the case of witchcraft, in Massachusetts, not until the families of some of the clergy were prosecuted as witches did they begin to wake up to the situation. Nothing is more fallacious than the notion that because a law lingers on the statute book, it should therefore be enforced. It is difficult to repeal a law that has any tinge or orthodoxy in it. Legislators are generally great cowards, not to say more of them. The people are the government, the will of the people the highest law. Often, not until nineteen-twentieths of the people are opposed to some superstitious law, is it repealed. But by common consent the law is regarded as obsolete. In like manner what were once supposed to be laws or truths of God, in the creeds, are quietly neglected or disregarded. Everybody knows that the old notions about the Sabbath are passing away, and it is whistling against the wind to try to stop the trend of that action.

NO MORE SUNDAY BALL.

The Preachers Resolve to Continue the Fight.

An Interesting Meeting Held in the Parlors of the First Congregational Church.

The Pastors' union met this morning at the First Congregational church and again discussed the Sunday base ball question.

Dr. Bacon reported on the conference between the pastors' committee and the police board, and after some discussion of the matter the report was accepted and the committee continued.

They were also given power to call to their assistance laymen if necessary.

There was considerable talk as to the best manner of continuing the fight, but finally the committee was empowered to employ legal advice and to call a mass meeting at such a time as they may think necessary.

The preachers seemed well pleased with the results so far obtained and are resolved to continue the fight against all violations of Sunday laws, making the base ball question a test case.

A FT. WAYNE PIONEER.

Hon. Franklin P. Randall Dies of Heart Disease.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., May 23.—Hon. Franklin P. Randall, one of the oldest pioneers of this city, died suddenly at his residence 61 East Berry street this morning of heart failure.

He was born in Madison county, N. Y., June 2, 1812. He came to this place in 1838, practiced law and framed first city charter which became a law in 1840.

He was state senator in 1847, was brigadier general of state militia in 1855, a presidential elector in 1856 and voted for James Buchanan for president. He was mayor of this city from 1859 to 1865, and from 1869 to 1873.

THE CITY IS RESPONSIBLE

For Injuries Received by Horses on the Streets,

Owing to Surcharged Street Car Rails—Mr. Berts to Make a Test —A Lawyer's Opinion,

It will soon be settled whether the city or the street car companies are responsible for the dangerous condition of the streets due to the surcharged street car rails.

Much damage has resulted from horses becoming frightened after stepping on a surcharged rail and Manager Borts, of the Maumee rolling mills, proposes making a test case.

Mr. Borts had a horse worth $250. He was frightened frequently by stepping on the rails and at last could hardly be induced to travel on a street where street car rails were laid. Some time since the horse received a shock from a charged rail and dashed against a telegraph poles, killing himself almost instantly.

Mr. Borts interviewed Manager Lang, of the Consolidated—on which lines the accident happened—with a view of securing recompense for the horse. Mr. Lang refused to even entertain or investigate the claim.

One of the most prominent attorneys of the city gave it as his opinion this morning that the city was responsible and it's suit will be begun against the city for maintaining a nuisance on the public streets.

FROM JAIL TO CONGRESS.

Judge Lane Scores a Victory in Convention.

Kansas City, Mo., May 23.—Judge E. T. Lane, presiding judge of Cass county, Mo., who with Associate Judges Wray and George has for some months been prisoners in the Jackson county jail for refusing to obey an order of the United States district court to direct a tax levy to pay bonds voted by Cass county, was nominated for the legislature by the democratic primaries in Cass county Saturday. He had three opponents, and received more votes than all of them.

A PERMANENT MUSEE

And Theater Being Fitted Up in Toledo.

J. H. Moore, of the Griswold Street Theater, Detroit, the Wonderland and Other Enterprises the Man Who is Doing It All.

Workmen have commenced the remodeling of the Luce building on Summit street, and August 15 it will be opened as the Wonderland theater and Museum by J. H. Moore, proprietor of the Griswold Street theater and Wonderland Musee of Detroit, and the Musee Theater, at Toronto.

The entire building has been leased for five years with an option of five more, and at least $30,000 will be spent in putting it in shape.

The front will be set back 18 feet and a marble entrance put in. The first floor will contain an art gallery fitted up like a luxurious drawing room, and a theater with a seating capacity of 600 with plush folding chairs and all modern appliances. Here will appear the best performers on the variety stage—people from Toney Pastor's, Koster & Bial's Eden Musee, New York, etc.

The second floor will be devoted to curios and freaks. The third floor will be the department of taxidermy, and an $8,000 collection will be on exhibition, also relics and a wax work exhibition similar to that in Eden Musee, New York. There are only four experts on wax figures in this country, and two of these will come to Toledo to remain permanently.

On the fourth floor will be the menagerie of forty cages.

Mr. Moore will have his head office here, and will conduct the management of his other enterprises from Toledo, making this the initial point of his circuit.

Mr. Bert Davis, who does the newspaper work for Mr. Moore's amusement enterprises, is in town making friends and assisting in putting things in shape.

DEATH LURKING ABOUT.

Two Toledoans Killed by Electric Cars.

Little Hattie Kramps Meets Her Death Sunday and John Fein Dies This Afternoon of Injuries Received Saturday—Another Man Injured.

About 6:30 o'clock last evening Hattie Kramp, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Kramp, of Erie street, met her death by being struck by an electric car. She had been playing with other children and in some way got in front of a Western avenue car. Before the motorman could put on the brakes the unfortunate girl was struck, knocked down and dragged along with the moving car. When picked up the girl was found to be insensible and horribly bruised. Her skull was fractured and three fingers of the left hand were cut off. She did not recover consciousness and died at 10 o'clock last evening.

Wm. Wolf was the motorman and James Webb the conductor. They say that they could not have prevented the accident.

Coroner Beckwith will hold an inquest this afternoon.

At noon to-day, John Fein, better known as "Bismarck," who was struck by an electric car on St. Clair street Saturday afternoon, and seriously injured, was lying in a critical condition.

As was stated in the Bee, his injuries are of an internal nature. Both lungs are effected, as indicated by a slight flow of blood. All the toes on his right foot were cut off, but owing to the injured man's weak condition no amputation has yet been made.

Later.—Mr. Fein died at 12:30 this afternoon.

Thomas Toland was struck by a Cherry street car Saturday evening and severely injured. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital and to-day is much improved. No bones were broken, but he was badly shaken up and bruised.

THE COLDHAM RESIDENCE

To be Secured by the New Catholic Club.

The Directors Met Yesterday and Decided on One of Two Locations —General Meeting to be Called.

Yesterday afternoon the directors of the Catholic club met at Friendship hall and the special committee appointed on a location reported having secured options on two very suitable residences that could be utilized as a club house.

One was the Coldham residence, corner of Adams and Michigan, and the other the handsome Hamilton residence between Adams and Oak on Huron street.

The former seemed to be the more suitable. It is a fine, commodious building, beautifully situated and just the thing for a club house of the kind required.

The directory will report favorably on the Coldham place, but the matter will be left to the judgment of the club. A special meeting will be called this week when the subject will be submitted and some definite action taken.

AN OLD TOLEDOAN

Delivers an Address Before a Chicago Audience.

M. J. Enright, formerly of this city, is secretary of the Woodlawn Park club, a literary association of Chicago.

"The Capacity of the United States for Defense in the Event of Foreign War" was the subject chosen by M. J. Enright, last night before the Woodlawn Park club, says the Chicago Post. In closing he said:

"Owing to recent diplomatic difficulties the settlement of which might have called for the services of our navy, the question of our naval strength became one of absorbing interest. We have a higher duty to perform, a broader mission to fulfill than the selfish protection of our own national interests. Events of the last hundred years forecast to the thoughtful student of history that the time is coming when the whole world will be divided by two hostile factions. In one will be assembled all who through interest or conviction, or by the aid of force, superstition or fanaticism, can be coerced to fight for monarchial principles; in the other will be gathered all those broader men who believe with Abraham Lincoln that 'government of the people, by the people and for the people' should not perish."

Mr. Enright thought money should be spent freely in equipping a naval force and strengthening the coast defenses of this country.

The aggregate of Mr. Bennett's sale were some $200,000, being an increase of nearly 100 per cent. over last year's business. The Bee is pleased to note such splendid progress on the part of a Toledo manufactory.

WING TEE WEE.

Oh, Wing Tee Wee
Was a sweet Chinee,
And she lived in the town of Tac;
And her eyes were blue,
And her curling queue
Hung dangling down her back,
And she fell in love with gay Wan Sli,
Who wrote his love on a laundry bill.

And Ting Tung Told
Was a pirate bold,
And he sailed in a Chinese junk;
And he loved, ah, me!
Sweet Wing Tee Wee;
But his valiant heart had sunk:
So he drowned his woes in a sparkling "fizz,"
And he swore that the maid would yet be his.

So bold Ting Told
Showed all his gold
To the maid of the town of Tac;
And sweet Wing Wee
Eloped to sea
And never more came back;
For in far Chinee the maids are fair,
And the maids as false as they are elsewhere.

There is an immense garden in China that embraces an area of 50,000 square miles. It is all meadow land and is filled with lakes, ponds and canals. Altogether it is as large as the states of New York and Pennsylvania combined.

The United Kingdom has neither petroleum nor natural gas. Our product of each in 1888 was nearly $25,000,000 on the spot—the aggregate, as given by the latest report of the United States geological survey, being over $47,000,000.

It is said that some of the Venetians—those who have never been to the mainland—have never seen a horse in all their lives. A showman once brought one to a fair and called it a monster, and the factory hands paid 15 cents each to see the marvel.

The collection of fabrics in the Drexel institute promises to become one of the finest in the country and of the highest importance to students. The series of Indian prints is remarkable and the Chinese embroideries comprise several notable specimens.

The tomb of Francis Marion, on the Belle Isle plantation, near Pineville, S. C., is a ruin overgrown with shrubbery. Even the decaying remains of the big tree that was blown across the tomb years ago, smashing it as it fell, still lie there untouched.

A few years ago the Baroness Burdett-Coutts came into possession of an abbreviated edition of a pony which was only fourteen inches in height and was but eighteen inches in length, counting from the end of the nose straight across to the root of the tail.

A resolution was adopted at the Episcopal convention of Pennsylvania this week excluding clergymen who are members of any religious order from seats in the convention. The passage of the resolution is regarded as a victory for the Low Churchmen.

Mme. La Croix, the French painter has the honor of being the first Frenchwoman to be elected a member of the Academy of Madrid. The distinction was conferred on her for the excellence of her paintings on the walls of the Madrid Athenaeum.

The Chinese are ahead of the world in the preparation of roast pork for the table. After it is come out of the oven it is hung up in the smoke of various aromatic herbs, which gives it a delicious flavor and robs it of the porky taste which is offensive to some palates.

There is a dentist in Rome named Fra Orsenico, who has been known to extract 400 teeth a day without the use of forceps. He makes use of his thumb and forefinger in drawing molars. He is a monk, and, naturally, has most of the clerical patronage in Rome.

It is computed that if the traffic of the City of London were to be dispatched by a procession of trains, each with the engine touching the preceding train, as far as Liverpool and back, 400 miles, the first to return to London would find 214,000 persons waiting to start.

The Pennsylvania railroad has decided to give all Christian ministers half-fare passes over its lines, and the Philadelphia office of the company is crowded with clergymen of all sorts, from bishops to salvation-army captains and from orthodox pastors to latter-day saints.

The Fans are the only people in equatorial Africa who have a currency, and they are strong mono-metallists. The money is of iron, wrought into pieces resembling rusty hairpins with flat heads. They are put up in bundles of ten, and 100 bundles is the market price of a wife.

Everyone may not know that the Bank of England notes are made from new white linen cuttings—never from anything that has been worn. So carefully is the paper prepared that even the number of dips into the pulp made by each workman is registered on a dial by machinery.

Creusot, France, has the most gigantic iron chimney that has as yet been constructed in the world. It is funnel shaped, big end down, 23 feet in diameter at the bottom and 7 at the top. It is exactly 279 feet 3 inches high, the total weight, exclusive of the masonry foundation, being 80 tons.

Madame Schumann has retired from active work, owing to failing health, at the age of 73. Before her marriage Goethe predicted for her a great future as a pianist. She began to play in public at the age of 10. A good portion of her professional life has been devoted to interpreting her husband's compositions.

There are two "largest" diamonds in existence—the Braganza, in the crown of Portugal, and that which belongs to the Rajah of Mattan in Borneo. The former is the size of a hen's egg, but it is believed to be only white topaz. It weighs 1,680 carats. The Borneo gem weighs 367 carats.

Pennsylvania is not the only oil field. So great has been the development of the petroleum fields in Peru that pipe lines have been run from the main wells to the coast. The opinion is expressed that the Peruvian field will soon be able to supply the demand of all the west coast of South America.

The organized militia of the United States consists of 101,321 enlisted men, commanded by 8,879 commissioned officers, besides 1,248 staff officers, making a total aggregate of 111,948 men. The number of men in the United States available for military duty, unorganized, is 8,567,350.

Iceland was colonized by Norwegians in 874. Christianity was introduced in the year 1000, and the people enjoyed a republican form of government and had a flourishing literature, till Iceland was subjected by Hakon, King of Norway, in 1264. The thousandth anniversary of colonization was celebrated in 1874.

That the world was inhabited long before authentic history began is now one of the generally accepted facts. There are said to be more than 3,000 prehistoric buildings in Sardinia. They are almost all in the fertile districts and are built in groups which are separated from one another by wide and generally barren places.

In 1016 an awful famine raged throughout all Europe, and again from 1193 to 1195, when complete failures caused terrible suffering. In England and France the people ate the flesh of dogs and cats, and many cases of cannibalism were recorded. During the latter three years thousands upon thousands perished from starvation.

All bread is not made from the flour of the cereals. Along the Columbia river a kind of bread is made by the Indians from a moss that grows on the spruce fir tree. This moss is prepared by placing it in heaps, sprinkling it with water and permitting it to ferment. Then it is rolled into balls as big as a man's head and these are baked in pits.

FIRE AGAINST FIRE.

Wilson and Cameron stood apart from their companions. With folded arms and thoughtful faces they watched the shadows of night stealing over lake and chaparrel.

"An hour like this casts a spell upon my spirit," said Cameron; "I love to see the dim, placid twilight."

"I have similar feelings," replied Wilson, but I like night best when advanced toward the small hours, and the moon and the stars are brightly beaming."

Cameron made no reply, and the parties remained silent. Wilson was the first to speak.

"That's a heavy rifle of yours," he said, glancing at the weapon upon which Cameron was leaning. "I dare say it has been of service to you in its time."

"No money can induce me to part with it, because I have proved its metal on various occasions. Did I ever tell you of an adventure I once had near the Red River?"

"You never did. I should like to hear it," said Wilson.

"Several years ago," resumed Cameron, "I was hunting near Cross Timbers, not far from Red River. The Indians were then troublesome, and frequently committed their depredations on the frontier settlements; but I was fond of hunting, and cared little for them, willing to trust to my own courage and ingenuity in any emergency that might occur. I carried this same rifle, and was called one of the best shots in the country.

"Many people said the piece was too heavy for common use; but I was used to it, and it didn't feel burdensome to me; and when I fired it was sure to do the right thing, for what animal could carry off an ounce and a half of lead, skillfully sped on its errand? Having discovered Indian signs, I thought it best to change my hunting ground, and so put a considerable distance between me and the spot, and encamped on a wide prairie, bounded on the east by the Cross Timbers. Not long after this event I was sitting on the bank of a small stream, resting my weary limbs after a long and fatiguing hunt, when I was fired upon and slightly wounded.

"I was fortunate enough to discover the marksman, who proved to be an Indian, of what tribe I do not remember. I instantly shot him dead and then perceived that he was not alone, for one of his brethren was with him, who made good his escape. Time passed on and I was undisturbed in my amusements for a long time.

"One day, not feeling very well, I returned to my camp sooner than usual. I lay down to sleep, but could not. I felt uneasy and nervous and so arose and went on the prairie. The grass was not very tall and the hot sun of the season had dried it until it was crispy and rattled as I walked through it. I ascended a gentle swell and looked around me. The scene was a grand one. On one hand was the Cross Timbers dimly seen in the distance, resembling a dense wall of wood built by human hands, while in every direction the prairie stretched away until lost in the distance. The sun was getting low and looked like a sunset on the sea. As my eyes wandered from point to point they were suddenly fixed upon a solitary figure several hundred yards distant at the foot of the long swell or roll upon which I was standing.

"He stood in the open space, and I at first wondered how that could be, as the grass was so high in every other place; but the affair soon explained itself. More careful examination showed me that the solitary object was an Indian, and his object in packing up the dry grass was to fire the prairie! It was doubtless the same fellow that had escaped at the time I had been fired on. He had discovered my retreat and was about to revenge himself in a singular manner.

"The wind was fresh toward me, and if the grass had been set on fire no power on earth could have saved me, for the fleetest horse could not run fast enough to escape from its devouring flames. A terrible dread of that kind of death came over me. I stood like one fascinated, and gazed at the preparations of the savage. He stood in the middle of the open space he had made, with a blazing torch in his hand. Innumerable thoughts rushed through my mind in an instant of time. I was never so completely paralyzed and stupefied in my life. The power of thought seemed to be the only power left me, and that was stimulated to an unnatural degree. The past, present and future were reviewed and speculated upon in that brief and unbroken fragment of time in which the savage stood waiting for the brand to burn more brightly, before he thrust it into the grass. Yes, my destiny was to be burned! Some hunter or traveler would find my body charred or blackened, and others, after a time, would pass my bones bleaching in the sun.

"You must remember that all these ideas and reflections ran through my mind in the shortest appreciable space of time; for you must know that the sudden prospect of great danger, from which there is no apparent mode of escape, imparts to the brain a horrible faculty of thought, of which the mind at rest can find no possible conception. I closed my eyes in prayer, and commended my soul to God; but it was impossible for me to close my eyes against the one great absorbing idea in my mind—that of being burnt up like the vile reptile that crawls in the woods.

"My eyelids unclosed, and as they did so my eyes rested upon my trusty rifle. It was the first time I had thought of it, for the distance was great between me and the enemy; but now it looked like an old friend.

"I embraced the though that the sight of my rifle called up a species of joy which is nearly overpowered by an agonizing feeling. One chance still remained—a small chance, it is true, but still a chance—and despair cannot paralyze and subdue the heart while one faint hope remains. I lifted the instrument upon which hung my destiny. As my glance ran over the intervening distance I felt how desperate indeed was my prospect of life, for a hundred good marksmen might try their skill in vain in aiming at an object so far off. Then I remembered that my weapon was of an old, uncommon caliber and weight, and would throw a ball farther than any I had ever seen. I recollected, also, that I had loaded it that very day with uncommon care, and for a long shot.

"The Indian moved the torch, and was about to apply it to the combustible materials. There was no time to lose. The rifle came to my shoulder quick and firm, and I braced my nerves for a steady aim with a strong effort of the will. I looked through the double sights, and the muzzle covered the Indian's head. My heart seemed to stop beating, held in the grasp of that terrible suspense. It was but an instant—then the rifle sent an ounce and a half of lead on its mission, with a crack that was unusually loud and sharp, and a recoil which threw me back a few paces.

"The smoke curled away, but I dared not look; I passed my hand slowly across my forehead, for my brain was throbbing painfully. Every moment I expected to be greeted by dense smoke from the burning prairie, and to hear the hissing of the burning flame; but nothing of the kind occurred, and I ventured to look toward the spot where the savage had stood with his torch. I reached it. The Indian lay upon his back, the brand half extinguished beside him, and an ounce and a half of lead through his head. I sank down, overpowered with gratitude and the various emotions which such an incident was calculated to inspire. This was the greatest shot I ever made. Can you wonder that I am attached to my rifle?"

"Not at all!" said the captain, earnestly. "I should never part with it, if it was mine."—San Francisco Call.

Turner, the naturalist, declared that he once saw upon the coast of Brazil a race of gigantic savages, one of whom was twelve feet in height. M. Thevet, of France, in his description of America published in Paris in 1575, asserted that he saw and measured the skeleton of a South American which was eleven feet five inches in length. The Chinese are said to claim that in the last century there were men in their country who measured fifteen feet in height.

The Rev. Dr. George T. Purves, having decided to give up his pastoral charge, the First Presbyterian church, of Pittsburg, in order to accept the chair of New Testament literature in Princeton seminary, his resignation was formally acted upon last Wednesday evening, at a special meeting. Dr. Mezger, the famous physician who has been in St. Petersburg in attendance upon the czarina, has returned to Wiesbaden and resumed his practice. It is said that he has been of great service to her majesty, and that in recognition of his success the czar decorated him with the Stansilaus order, set with diamonds. But the doctor was also the recipient of $400 a day during his residence at the Russian capital. Few physicians in Europe have so many royal patients as Dr. Mezger, who began life as a butcher boy in Holland. As a rule, he will not leave Wiesbaden to attend his patients, but compels them to visit him. Up to the present time he has made exceptions with only the pope, the empress of Austria and the czarina.

IMITATORS AND IMPOSTORS.

The unequalled success of Allcock's Porous Plasters as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of Allcock's. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with Allcock's a false pretense.

The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring Allcock's Porous Plasters the best external remedy ever produced.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

WEAR AND TEAR.

Effect of This Wide-Awake Way of Living.

Overtaxed, Overworked and Overworried Young and Old.

Class of 40 Girls in Boston School Answer Questions.

Maladies of the nervous system are increasing rapidly, especially in the more crowded portions of the country.

Chicago is, to say the least, one of the keenest and most wide-awake business cities in America. In Chicago one-fifth of all deaths and almost a third of all sickness is due, in one way and another, to nervous diseases.

Back in the fifties only one-twentieth of the deaths and one-twelfth of the sickness were credited to diseases of the nervous system.

In explaining the great demand for Paine's celery compound, a member of the health board in an adjoining city, said:

"The nervous systems of thousands of people in this city are sorely overtaxed.

"And the danger of overwork exists as much among children, almost, as among adults. But it is not so much overwork as over-worry that affects the health of the child and results in disease. A class of 40 girls in a Boston school was questioned the other day, and more than half the number were conscious of loss of sleep and nervous apprehension on account of their school work."

A remarkable case of suffering, that will find many a parallel here, has recently come to light in Detroit. It illustrates the necessity of attending in the right way to any of those ills among children, as well as adults, that result from impaired nerves and impure blood.

Mrs. M. V. Gouin is a devoted mother, whose four beautiful children (a likeness of whom appears above) are watched over with the most maternal affection. When the youngest was six weeks old a terrible eruption broke out all over her. Several physicians were consulted, and while opinions varied, the disease was generally regarded as salt rheum. Yet the usual remedies failed, and the child grew worse instead of better.

About that time the papers gave an account of a case that had been cured by the use of the famous remedy discovered by Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college. Mrs. Gouin obtained some and commenced giving it to the baby. The result was wonderful, for in two weeks the sores were entirely healed, and the little one is now entirely well. This was solely due to the learned professor's discovery, Paine's celery compound.

This was not all, and Mrs. Gouin, in a letter to the physician of that city who reported the case, tells additional proofs of the marvellous curative power of this compound. She wrote:

"My children had the grippe last fall, and were weak and ailing all winter. I tried phys'cians' prescriptions and everything my friends recommended, but without effect. I was fairly discouraged, for they were so weak and feeble.

"But Paine's celery compound gave them strength, a good appetite and made them strong and well, so that they are now the picture of health."

Such an experience naturally created some comment in Detroit, and the western medical journals have again taken to discussing the value of Dr. Phelps' services in giving the compound to the world.

A medicine which is used so successfully for babes and children, it goes without saying, can do no harm even to the most delicate. It never fails to do good, restoring and strengthening the nerves and blood, and curing disease.

East and west, and north and south, thousands owe their health to it.

KERR STILL ASSIGNEE.

Upper Sandusky, O., May 23.—The application made in the probate court here for the removal of Robert Kerr as assignee of Clay Miller, and which has consumed the attention of Judge Berry the greater part of last week, has resulted in a decision in favor of Kerr, the judge declining to remove him as requested.

TO SLAY OR TO BE SLAIN, WHICH?

To attack the dragon of disease and annihilate him before his deadly talons grow, or to allow him to attain dangerous maturity and destroy us—that is the question of paramount importance to all afflicted with organic ailments. Among these, disorders of the kidneys and bladder are of the fatal order if unrestrained at the outset. Their growth is rapid, their culmination death. Bright's disease, ordinary nephritis, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, gravel, suppression of the secretion, cannot be tampered with or disregarded safely. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a superb depurative tonic, giving the due impulse, without excitation to the renal organs, besides strengthening and regulating them in common with the rest of the system. It infuses, too, vigor and regularity into the stomach, bowels and liver, successfully counteracts malaria and rheumatism, and is a pre-eminently fine tonic for the aged, the enfeebled and the convalescent.

KILLED A PATIENT.

A Most Brutal Affair Reported from Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., May 23.—At the Anchorage insane asylum near this city, Michael J. Carry, an inmate, was killed by C. L. Buchanan and Frank Ellis, attendants.

Carry was sent from this city last week. He was a muscular fellow, about 48 years old, and gave considerable trouble. The attendants say they were trying to control him while he was in a frantic condition, and he threatened to kill them. A terrible struggle ensued.

Buchanan and Ellis threw Carry upon the floor and fell heavily upon him with their knees, breaking every rib but three and inflicting other internal injuries. He died in a short time.

The coroner's inquest developed the facts given above, and Ellis and Buchanan were taken into custody. They admitted that they lost their temper. A patient who saw the struggle says Carry started to go through the door of the barber shop, when Buchanan knocked him down and fell upon him with one knee. Ellis ran up and kicked him in the stomach. Carry cried out, "For God's sake, don't kill me," as Ellis fell upon him with both knees, crushing out his life.

THE SIGNAL OF WARNING

A Sermon Preached from One Word.

Religious Teachers Need More of the Aromatic Style in Their Pulpits.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 23.—Rev. Dr. Talmage took for the subject of his sermon Sunday a single word of frequent occurrence in the Bible, and whose meaning is but little understood. From it he drew a profoundly impressive description of the varied and majestic purposes of certain parts of Scripture, and a practical lesson for Christians generally. The text was Psalms lxi. 4: "Selah."

The majority of the Bible readers look upon this word of my text as of no importance. They consider it a superfluity, a mere filling in, a meaningless interjection, a useless refrain, an undefined echo. Selah! But I have to tell you that it is no scriptural accident. It occurs seventy-four times in the Book of Psalms and three times in the Book of Habakkuk. You must not charge this perfect book with seventy-seven trivialities. Selah! It is an enthroned word. If, according to an old writer, some words are battles, then this word is a Marathon, a Thermopylae, a Sedan, a Waterloo. It is a word decisive, sometimes for poetic beauty, sometimes for grandeur, and sometimes for eternal import. Through it roll the thundering chariots of the Omnipotent God.

I take this word for my text because I am so often asked what is its meaning, or whether it has any meaning at all. It has an ocean of meaning, from which I shall this morning dip up only four or five bucketsful. I will speak to you, so far as I have time, of the Selah of poetic significance, the Selah of intermission, the Selah of emphasis, and the Selah of perpetuity.

Are you surprised that I speak of the Selah of poetic significance? Surely the God who sapphired the heavens and made the earth a rosebud of beauty, with oceans hanging to it like drops of morning dew, would not make a Bible without rythm, without redolence, without blank verse. God knew that eventually the Bible would be read by a great majority of young people; for in this world of malaria and casualty an octogenarian is exceptional, and as 30 years is more than the average of human life, if the Bible is to be a successful book it must be adapted to the young. Hence the prosody of the Bible—the drama of Job, the pastoral of Ruth, the epic of Judges, the dithyrambic of Habakkuk, the threnody of Jeremiah, the lyric of Solomon's song, the oratorio of the Apocalypse, the strophe and anti-strophe, and the Selah of the Psalms.

Wherever you find this word Selah, it means that you are to rouse up to great stanza, that you are to open your soul to great anologies, that you are to spread the wing of your imagination for great flight. "I answered thee in the secret place of thunder; I proved to thee at the waters of Meribah. Selah." "The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are dissolved; I the pillars of it. Selah." Who is this King of glory? The Lord of Hosts, he is the King of glory. Selah." "Thou shalt pass me about with songs of deliverance. Selah." "Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah." "The Lord of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah." "Thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be displayed because of the truth. Selah." "I will hide under the covert of thy wings. Selah." "O, God, when thou wentest forth before thy people, when thou didst march through the wilderness. Selah."

Wherever you find this word it is a signal of warning hung out to tell you to stand off the track while the rushing train goes by with its imperial passengers. Poetic words, charged with sunrise, and sunset, and tempest, and earthquake, and resurrections, and millenniums.

Next I come to speak of the Seleh of intermission. Gesenius, Tholuck, Hengstenberg, and other writers agree in saying that this word Selah means a rest in music; what the Greeks call a diapsalma, a pause, a halt in the solemn march of cantillation. Every musician knows the importance of it. If you ever saw Jullien, the great musical leader, stand before 5,000 singers and players of instruments, and with one stroke of his baton smite the multitudinous hallelujah into silence, and then, soon after that, with another stroke of his baton rouse up the full orchestra to a great outburst of harmony, then you know the mighty effect of a musical pause. It gives more power to what is to come after. So God thrusts the Selah into his Bible and into our lives, compelling us to stop and think, stop and consider, stop and admire, stop and pray, stop and repent, stop and be sick, stop and die. It is not the great number of times that we read the Bible through that makes us intelligent in the Scriptures. We must pause. What though it take an hour for one word? What though it take a week for one verse? What though it take a year for one chapter? We must pause and measure the height, the depth, the length, the breadth, the universe, the eternity of meaning in one verse. I should like to see some one sail around one little adverb in the Bible, a little adverb of two letters, during one lifetime—the word "so" in the New Testament passage, "God so loved the world." Augustine made a long pause after the verse. "Open thou my lips, and my mouth shall show forth Thy praise," and it converted him. Wm. Cowper made a long pause after the verse, "Being freely justified by his grace," and it converted him. When God tells us seventy-seven times meditatively to pause in reading two of the books of the Bible, he leaves to our common sense to decide how often we should pause in reading the other sixty-four books of the Bible.

We must pause, and ask for more light. We must pause, and weep over our sins. We must pause, and absorb the strength of one promise. I sometimes hear people boasting about how many times they have read the Bible through, when they seem to know no more about it than a passenger would know about the state of Pennsylvania who should go through it in a St. Louis lightning express train and in a Pullman "sleeper," the two characteristics of the journey, velocity and somnolence. It is not the number of times you go through the Bible, but the number of times the Bible goes through you. Pause, reflect. Selah!

So also on the scroll of your life and mind. We go rushing on, in the song of our prosperity, from note of joy to note of joy, and it is a long drawn-out legato, and we become indifferent and unappreciative, when suddenly we come upon a blank in the music. There is nothing between those bars. A pause. God will fill it up with a sick-bed, or a commercial disaster, or a grave. But, thank God, it is not a breaking down; it is only a pause. It helps us to appreciate the blessings that are gone; it gives us higher appreciation of the blessings that are to come.

The Selah of Habakkuk and David is a dividing line between two anthems. David begins his book with the words, "Blessed is the man," and after seventy-four selahs he closes his book with the words, "Praise ye the Lord." So there are mercies behind us, and there are going to be mercies before us. It is good for us that God halts us in our fortunes, and halts us with physical distress, and halts us at the graves of our dead. More than once you and I have halted by such a selah. You have wrung your hands and said: "I can't see any sense in this providence; I can't see why God gave me that child if he is soon going to take it away. O, my desolate home! O, my broken heart!" You could not understand it. But it was not a selah of overthrow. It gave you greater appreciation of the blessings that have gone; it will yet give you greater appreciation of the blessings that will come.

When the Huguenots were being very much persecuted in France, a father and mother were obliged to fly from the country, leaving their child in the possession of a comparative stranger. They did not know whether they would ever return, or returning, if they would be able to recognize their child, for by that time she might be grown. The mother was almost frenzied by the thought of leaving the child, and then, even if coming back again, not being able to know her. Before they left, the father drew his sword, and he marked the wrist of that child with a deep cut. It must have been a great exigency to make a father do that. Years of absence passed on, and after awhile the parents returned, and their first anxiety was to find their lost child. They looked up and down the land, examining the wrists of the young people, when lo! after a while the father found a maiden with a scar upon her wrist. She knew him not, but he knew her. And O, the joy of the reunion! So it is now. "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth." He cutteth, he marketh, and when he comes to claim his own the Lord will know them that are his—know them by the scar of their trouble, know them by the stroke of their desolation.

Dyspepsia has driven to an early and even suicidal grave many a man who, if he had tried the virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, would be alive to-day and in the enjoyment of health and competence. Sufferer, be warned in season, and don't allow the system to run down.

BOUND TO WIN.

Failures Did Not Disturb a Settled Purpose,

And the Man Who Would Not be Daunted Won His Way at Last.

"The man who has it in him to win will generally win," said a New Yorker in an uptown restaurant the other day, and the story is told in the Tribune. "Sometimes I think it's best to get all your bad luck in a heap. Pile it on one bit after the other, and then when the good luck comes you have a clear way and are in good training for a strong run.

"I was out west 15 years ago when I met a young fellow who interested me a great deal. He couldn't have been over 28 then, but he had seen a great deal of life—that is, life out there. I heard that he had been in the sheep-raising business a couple of years before, but had lost his whole business—bad luck, every one said.

"I had taken out a few thousand dollars with which I wanted and expected to make a fortune in a marvelously short time. As I knew nothing at all about sheep, and every one said that what he didn't know about sheep was not worth knowing, I thought it would be a good idea to strike a bargain with him. So I went to him.

He was working in a railroad machine shop at the time, earning, I think it was, $3.75 a day, for before he became of age he had learned this trade just to fall back on, he explained. 'And,' he added, with a twinkle in his eye, 'I've fallen back on it oftener than I expected.'

'When I explained to him my idea about the sheep he told me about his life. His mother had died and left him about $3,000. When he came of age he took the money and put it all in sheep. He lost it. For a time he 'fired' on a locomotive and then went back to his trade.

"He saved money and invested it in a sawmill scheme with some others. The mill burned down—it hadn't made money, anyway—and he went back to his trade again. Then he worked his way to Deadwood, made up his mind there was nothing there for him, and got back into Wyoming.

"He had in his life learned how to telegraph. He had a smart head and a pleasing manner, and got two jobs at once—telegraph operator and manager of the drug store in a little town, running the business end of the drug store, while its owner, a physician, looked over the drug part, which was a trifle compared with the fancy goods, paints, oils and various other things, including coal.

He established his telegraph office in the drug store and all went merrily until he had saved $1,500. With that he went out and hunted up a partner with the same amount of capital. They went to Utah. He bought sheep and "went broke" again.

"'Now,' he said to me with a pleasant laugh, 'you see that I haven't made just what you might call a startling success out of sheep. But I know there is money in it. I know why I have failed before, and I may fail again.

"'But I have been saving $75 a month to go into business once more, and if, after what I've told you, you would like to try me, I'm your man.' So we tried it, and in due course of time we 'went broke,' or practically so.

"I had come to admire this man immensely. He was straightforward, bright, witty and extremely able, and I felt more sorry for him than I did for myself.

"'A——,' I said, when the game was over, 'the trouble with you is sheep. You'd made a fortune at anything else in the world, because you have the brains and the pertinacity to do it, but as long as you stick to sheep you will be a poor man. It's your fate. Come, now, swear off on sheep with me. I am going back east and make my money slowly.'

"'Just you wait,' he said, laughing cheerfully. 'I'll hit it yet.'

"Well, the other day a big, full-waisted, brown-bearded man walked into my office. I knew him at a glance, and I was so glad to see him that I jumped half way across the room.

"'How are you?' I cried. 'How have you been doing? Tell me all about yourself.' And he told me in a modest way that he had built half a town, and had come east to get some ideas on plumbing and water works.

"'I'll get the contract for the water works,' he said, 'if I can get hold of a real live man here who will go out with me. I've already complied with the dicker for opening a plumbing shop. I also want you to find me a smart, wide-awake young man who wants to be a bank cashier. Have got the bank, and we've got the president—I'm that fellow—but we want a cashier.'

"'Well, A——,' I said, 'I told you that you could do it. I knew it was in you. I'm glad you quit the sheep, finally.'

"'Sheep!' cried A——, with a great laugh. 'Why, man, I have one of the finest herds in the west, and the finest plant without an exception anywhere. If you want to see a sheep ranch that beats the world, come out and see me. Sheep! Man, it was sheep that did all the rest.'

"And then," added the New Yorker, "while I congratulated him with all my heart, I felt a little faintness to think what I might have had if I had stuck it out with him."

PARIS' DEAD.

The Manner in Which They are Buried —A Funeral Monopoly.

In every great city the poor live by the worldly vanities of the rich. In Paris they die in the same way. It is the manufacture of innumerable superfluities which makes up the bulk of the industry of the working classes. The French capital has developed an ingenious system by which the poor are furnished with a free burial at the expense of the "pride, pomp, and circumstance" which Dives considers his due on the road to the tomb. One of the largest, best managed, and most profitable industries in Paris is that of the Pompes Funebres, the gigantic monopoly which alone has the privilege of transporting the dead through the streets of Paris in funeral style. It possesses undertakers' material to the value of over four millions of francs, does some six millions a year of business, and turns over nearly two and a half millions of this as clear profit to its accredited owners, the church establishment of the city, after gratuitously and decently burying some three out of every five of the dead as indigent subjects.

Each country and each age have their own fashion of disposing of their dead, from the Patagonian who makes "lion meat" of his spouse back to the ancient Roman with his ancestral urns. Taken all in all, perhaps there is no more reasonable arrangement than that of the thrifty Parisian who manages to have each disposal of the dead carried out "decently and in order" through the exploitation of a love of lavish display in a minor portion of the community. One sees nothing of the ghastly side of the undertakers' work in visiting the vast premises which have been recently devoted to the use of the Pompes Funebres, away out in the extreme northeast of Paris, in La Villette. There we found only "the trappings and the suits of woe," the materials for the funeral decorations and the funeral corteges. Take it altogether, a ramble over the establishment is one of the most interesting sights of the city.—The Forum.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S DOGS.

Pets in Which Her Majesty Takes a Great Interest.

Her majesty, as is known, is fond of dogs, and G. B. Krehl, in a supplement to the Stockkeeper, gives some interesting particulars, ascertained on a visit to the kennels at Windsor, respecting the royal canine pets. It goes without saying that the animals receive every attention and are admirably housed. Their sleeping apartments are carefully ventilated and hot water pipes run through the length of the building.

In the kennels are dogs of nearly every breed. For collies the queen has always showed a preference, and this accounts for the number kept at Windsor. The Princess Beatrice's "fancy" lies in the direction of fox terriers, which are also well represented. We are glad to note, by the way, that the fox terriers in the royal kennels are not docked. It would be a good thing if the royal example in this respect were generally followed. How any one can imagine that mutilating a dog adds to its beauty we fail to understand.

Some of the royal fox terriers are certainly game enough. One of them—Jock by name—which, when a store was recently cleared out, had a chance of distinguishing himself, killed 22 rats in a quarter of an hour. Her majesty, it should be said, frequently inspects the kennels, "inquiring into everything affecting the health and comfort of the inmates, and giving each animal a caressing pat and kindly word of recognition.

When the royal dogs die they are laid to rest "beneath the turf where they gamboled as puppies and were exercised when they grew up. Each little grave is marked by a stone tablet about a foot long and eight inches across, giving the name and date of death." Among the inscriptions on the tombstones of the dogs are the following: "Maurice, favorite Mount St. Bernard of H. R. H., the Prince Consort, died November, 1864." A little further away lies "Princie, Scotch terrier. Brought from Balmoral, June 14, 1865. Died February 6, 1874," and in the shade of a small fir rests "Nellie (collie), mother of Bess, Flora and Sailor. Died October 12, 1886."—Pall Mall Gazette.

LIGHT DAY IN THE PITS

Not Very Much Trading in Wheat.

The Closing Prices Lower in Chicago.

Crop Reports—Doings of the Commercial World as Told by the Wires.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 180,029 bus and at five other western points 117,415 bus.

The export clearances Saturday at four Atlantic port are wheat 274,658 bus and flour to an aggregate of 330,000 bus. Exports of corn 155,815 bus and of oats 32,420 bus.

English markets are dull and prices at opening lower for wheat and corn.

The Markets To-day.

Our signal office weather bulletin furnishes the basis for the decline to-day in the wheat and corn markets on this side of the Atlantic. While the prospect of better weather comes in time to insure an addition to corn planting, it will be impossible to improve the usual area because of the immense acreage of bottom lands now covered by water and which cannot be made ready in time for planting. Neither does the improvement in the weather come in time to remedy the losses in the wheat crop. It will be too late when the ground is dry enough to sow, to get in the acreage in the spring wheat states. The effect of dry weather on the winter wheat will be to give it a more sound and healthy growth. The crop needs sunny weather from now to harvest to perfect it. Oats have not all been sown yet and may not be.

Lower and dull markets in London and Liverpool, at opening, was an additional factor for decline on this side.

In Toledo—The trading in wheat has been only quite moderately active and without new features.

The visible supply of wheat decreased last week 4,499,000 bus. Corn 1,546,000 bus. Oats 1,439,000 bus. In the corresponding week in 1891 wheat decreased 951,000 bus. Corn increased 1,014,000 bus., and oats 461,000 bus.

The decrease in the wheat visible last week is one of the extraordinary incidents in this extraordinary market year. It cannot all be accounted for by exportation, but largely by being absorbed by mills, etc., for home consumption. Its effect upon the markets was an advance in the price of 1-2c, but it was not wholly maintained Corn has also felt the effects of the weather change, and is lower.

Some of the foreign markets are dearer and some cheaper and there is no marked significance in the quotations, compared with Saturday.

In New York May wheat closed 1 1-8c and 1 1-8c lower. May corn 1-4c higher, and July 1 1-8c lower. May oats 1c lower.

In Chicago May wheat closed 1c lower, and July 3-4c. May corn 3c lower, and July 1 3-8c lower. May oats 3-4c lower.

In Toledo the trading in wheat has been only quite moderately active, and without new features other than above noted. Prices on the leading futures have not broken off much, opening 5-8c lower, advancing 3-4c and closing at 1-4c decline on July. May closed 1-2c, June 1-4c and August 3-4c lower. On the call May sold at 92c. July at 86c. After the call May sold at 92c to 92 3-4c and closed at 1-2c. June sold at 90 1-2c and closed at 1-4c. July sold at 86 to 86 3-4c and closed at 3-8. August sold at 85c and closed at 84 3-4c.

Cash wheat was dealt in by car lots. Our receipts are increasing. No. 2 soft sold at 92 1-2c to 82 1-8c, and closed at 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 88c bid.

Corn—On the call July sold at 46 1-2c. After the call at 46 1-2c. No. 2 cash at 50c. Nothing in oats or rye.

Crop Reports.

St. Paul, Minn., May 23.—A. C. Clausen, chief grain inspector of Minnesota, returned yesterday from a trip over the northern part of the state. Referring to the prospects of a crop of wheat this year, he said: "North of the line of the Northern Pacific, along the line of the Red river, both in North Dakota and Minnesota, wheat seeding has progressed very slowly indeed.

"Figuring the acreage likely to be put into wheat in the states of North and South Dakota and Minnesota, with the average yield per acre for the last five years, there is likely to be a shortage of from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 of bushels from last year's yield, which is conceded to have been about 150,000,000 bushels."

J. V. Sanfleet Sells His Concern to a Company

That Will Organize and Operate the Mills on a Large Scale—Papers Go to Columbus.

John V. Sanfleet has sold his planing mill on Vine street, between Summit and Water, to a number of Toledo capitalists who will organize as an incorporated company on a much larger scale.

Mr. Sanfleet will retain ownership of the building and will also have an interest in the company.

The incorporation papers will be forwarded to Columbus in a day or two, and until then the names of the incorporators will not be known.

Mr. Sanfleet says he will not manage the business, but it will be run by one of the most competent men in the city.

CHAS. COTTRELL IN TROUBLE

A Warrant Issued for His Arrest.

A Serious Charge Placed Against a Toledo Boy of State Reputation.

A dispatch from Columbus gives the startling information that a warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of Charles E. Cottrell, an old Toledo boy, who is at present holding a position in the office of Secretary of State Poorman.

The warrant charges Cottrell with criminal assault, and the dispatch further says the assault was made in a house of ill-fame and that the keeper of the house aided in it.

The keeper of the house and a man named Jordan have been arrested, but Cottrell had not been located yet.

CARD OF THANKS.

Our heartfelt thanks we wish to express to all those who, in such numbers, participated in the funeral of our beloved wife and mother, Mary Bitterly, to the friends who sent so many beautiful flowers, and especially to Rev. Pastor Quehl for his consoling words at the house and at the grave, as also to the Harmonia lodge, No. 1180, of the Foresters, for their liberal aid.

Notice to Surveyors.

To the Auditor of Lucas County:

Dear Sir—In accordance with resolution of the county commissioners dated February 24, 1891, the undersigned took observations to ascertain the declination of the magnetic meridian and respectfully reports the following, viz:

Six readings were taken from each of the verniers ("A" and "B") at the north and south ends of the established meridian line the average of which readings shows a declination of the needle from the true meridian of 30 minutes, 0 seconds west of north.

Instrument used was a Beckman Transit, No. 914. I hereby certify that the foregoing is a correct report of observations of the declination of the magnetic from the true meridian.

Respectfully submitted.

H. W. WILHELM,
Lucas County Surveyor.

Chas. H. Jones, County Auditor.

Why is it that Strictly Pure White Lead is the best paint?

Because it will outlast all other Paints, make a handsomer finish, give better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.

If a color other than white is wanted, tint the paint with the National Lead Co.'s

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in small cans, one pound being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of strictly pure White Lead to the desired shade.

Be Careful

to use only old and well-known brands of white lead. The market is flooded with adulterated and "so-called" white leads. The following brands are always strictly pure and are established by the test of years:

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL.

Two Men Come Very Near Escaping.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 23.—A desperate attempt to break out of the Saratoga county jail at Ballston Spa was made Sunday afternoon by Martin Foy, jr., who brutally murdered Henrietta Wilson, of this city, a few days ago, and Jerry Donahue, who was waiting trial for assault with intent to kill.

The two men managed to gag and bind Officer Ford and lock him in a cell. Ford succeeded in removing his gag before the prisoners could get into the lower corridor. Howard soon came with assistance and dor and shouted lustily for help. Jailor the prisoners were driven into their cells at the point of revolvers. They were under the influence of liquor, which is believed to have been passed to them from the outside by a prisoner whose term expired on Saturday. Sheriff Worden has ordered the arrest of this man.

Work on the Immaculate Conception church is progressing splendidly, considering the bad weather. The first story is about complete.

C. T. Dalbee, a Lake Shore brakeman, while attempting to board a moving train at Air Line Junction, Sunday evening, missed his footing and fell to the ground, fracturing his right knee in a painful manner.

The song service at the First Congregational church last night as usual drew a large audience. The music, which was from Mendelssohn's oratorio of St. Paul, was very fine. Solos were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Currier, Miss Buck, and Mr. Howell, and the chorus singing was especially good.

Mr. W. J. Bach, the Dorr street druggist, is erecting a two-story frame business block next to his drug store, at the corner of Dorr and Ewing streets. A stock of dry goods will be put on the first floor and tonsorial parlors on the second. The building will be pushed to completion as fast as the weather will permit.

Often the way to find a thing is not to hunt for it, but the way to have a comfortable chew is to buy Indian Brand fine cut.

On Tuesday afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock, the pastors of the First Congregational church will be pleased to meet the members of the congregation in the Sunday school rooms, also on Thursday evening from 7 to 8 p. m. This "social hour" is very pleasant to pastors and people.

WEDDING IN HIGH LIFE.

New York, May 23.—Archbishop Corrigan officiated this afternoon at the wedding of Miss Celestine Noel and Herbert Johnson, two well-known members of fashionable society. By special dispensation it was a home wedding, being solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents in Waverly Place. Three hundred guests were in attendance.

At a trial in Munich, the plaintiff being the proprietor of an embroidery business which was denounced in the press as paying starvation wages, one witness said that for a drugget upon which an average workwoman would be occupied three days, working 10 hours per diem, 25 cents was paid, of which seven cents was deducted for wool, etc. This meant a wage of seven cents a day. Another witness stated that she was an exceptionally quick embroideress, and could earn 32 cents a day, others, however, only earning 18 or 20 cents. Another said that by working hard from seven in the morning till two the next morning she could earn 48 cents.

Men's $15 Suits for $10!

You may ask how we can offer such values? Simply this: that in our nine large stores we sell millions of dollars' worth of clothing annually, and the manufacturer who has a stock to close out makes his best offer to the dealer who can handle the entire lot, and we always get the first chance. This season being backward we have secured many unusual bargains, and from our Detroit Repository, where these good things are stored until we need them, we have made another draft for this week's trade. We will show you $10 Suits worth $15 in Black Cheviots, Blue Serges, Fancy Cheviots and neat Mixed Cassimeres in Greys and Dark Colors.
